FAMINE AND PLAGUE IN PERSIA.

A dispatch from the East says the accounts from Persia are in no way exaggerated. In addition to a famine, cholera, typhus fever and the plague are making terrible ravages. The reports of the cannibalism induced the Governor of Pniraze to place a guard at each of the cemeteries to prevent the unfortunate and starving people from disinterring the bodies of the dead for use as food. The attaches of the British Embassy and the telegraphers have all fled from the country.

A QUEENLY BLUNDER.

LONDON, July 27.—In the House of Commons this evening Mr. Gladstone handed to the Speaker a royal message urging that provision be made for Prince Arthur. Upon the Speaker apprising Mr. Gladstone that the message was addressed to the House of Lords, there was much derisive laughter from the Opposition benches. The Premier apologized somewhat lamely for the mistake. The question of ballot was discussed with animation till the adjournment.

RUSSIA.

THE EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 26.—The American Commission from the Evangelical Alliance has had several interviews with Prince Gortschakoff, who has treated them with marked courtesy, and distinction. Although offered sumptuous quarters at Peterhoff by the express command of the Emperor, the members of the delegation continue to occupy apartments at the hotel where they are constantly visited by distinguished Greek and Protestant Christians. They speak very encouragingly of the prospects for the accomplishment of their mission, and allude to Gortschakoff's cordial reception as an immense success. The Commission will be accorded audience with his Imperial Majesty some day next week. The Lutheran magistrates now in St. Petersburg place strong hopes on the influence which the Commission will be able to exert in behalf of the faith at the coming interview with the Emperor Alexander. On the other hand, those intimate at court affirm that the Evangelical Alliance will be told that the statements in regard to the persecutions of the Lutherans in the Baltic Provinces have been evidently grossly exaggerated, but that the Imperial Government will order a thorough investigation to be made, in order to demonstrate their assertions. The American gentlemen will then be referred to Prince Gortschakoff, and finally crushed with kindness from the Imperial palace.

MOVEMENTS OF THE CZAR.

On Monday the Czar was at the castle of Ingenheim, in Bavaria, where he was visited by the Emperor of Germany, the two monarchs remaining together during the entire day. His Majesty of Russia left Ingenheim yesterday for St. Petersburg, and will arrive here to-morrow. Soon after his return the Emperor Alexander proposes making a tour of Caucasia, and will probably be accompanied by the Czarwitch and his youngest son, the Grand Duke Vladimir, who has lately arrived from England. Great preparations are being made in Slaverapal, in Caucasia, and Tiflis, in Georgia, for the Czar's reception.

ROME.

THE POPE REPLIES.

ROME, July 27.—The Pope, in reply to an address of the Roman academy, remonstrating against doctrines which are antagonistic to the spirit of modern times, disclaims any intention on the part of the papacy to lay claim to inherit the power to dispossess sovereigns, or to assume direction over the worldly affairs of nations. In neutral times, says his holiness, Christian nations revered the Pope, as an arbitrator between sovereigns and the people in cases of disagreement, and great services have been rendered by the papacy in preventing war and healing up divisions among the nations of the world.

LOUIS, July 27.—The Kansas and Pacific Railroad bonds stolen from the United States Express Company on Tuesday, were numbered as follows: 250 to 285, and 301 to 360, inclusive for five hundred dollars each; 301 to 341, and 451 to 500 inclusive for $250 each. They are land grant bonds, and had July coupons attached. Both Kendall, the driver, and Louden, the messenger of the Express Company, have been released, there being no positive evidence of complicity in the robbery against them.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT—THE KILLED.

It transpires that the accident on the Toledo, Wabash, and Western Railroad some miles from the city, night before last, was caused by the disobedience of orders on the part of Conductor Frank Gibbs and engineer Babcock of the freight train, who on their arrival at Edwardsville were instructed to remain there until six o'clock, or until the arrival of the construction train, instead of which they left at 5:35, and the collision was the result. The names of the killed are David Perry, John Yeamons, James Sousdine, Wesley Balcom, John Younghouse and Dietrick. It is stated the Coroner's jury returned a verdict criminating Gibbs and Babcock, both of whom fled immediately after the accident, fearing violence at the hands of the laborers, who threatened to lynch them.

FALL OF A BRIDGE.

A dispatch dated Fulton, 27th inst., says: The falls work of the bridge on the L. and M. Railroad, now being built over the river, eight miles north of Fulton, fell last Sunday, carrying with it a nearly completed span of the bridge, and nine men who were at work on it, over a hundred feet, to the bed of the river below. Wonderful as it may appear, only one man, A. McGillas, was killed; Charles Gray was fatally injured; George Brewington and William Brothers suffered severe internal injuries and will probably die. The others were not seriously hurt.

MORTGAGE BONDS.

Attorney General Baker of this State, having been called upon for an opinion as to the validity of the mortgage bonds for the payment of which the North Missouri Railroad is to be sold next month, replies that without considering the inherent right of corporations to mortgage their franchises and property to secure indebtedness on their part, about which there is much conflict of opinion in the judgments of the courts of last resort in the United States, he is constrained to the opinion that the North Missouri had no authority to mortgage its franchises or property without the express sanction of the Legislature, which the company did not have. He is further of the opinion that the North Missouri Railroad Company had no authority to borrow money or pledge the main line of their roads for the construction of the Western branch from Moberly to Kansas City, nor for the erection of a bridge at St. Charles, which is an enterprise owned and controlled by a distinct company. He is also of opinion that the interest of the county as a stockholder will be served by the application for an injunction to prevent the sale of the road and having the mortgage declared unauthorized. Judge Henry C. Clover concurs in the opinion.

TENNESSEE.

Railroad Ordered to be Sold.

NASHVILLE, July 27.—The State Railroad Commission, composed of Governor Senter and others, have issued an order for the sale of the Knoxville and Charleston, Rogersville and Jefferson, and Knoxville and Kentucky Railroads, with their franchises, rolling stock and equipments, at public auction, on the 20th of next September; and unless the decree of the Chancery Court shall be complied with by the Nashville and Northwestern Railroad, ordering the payment of its debt to the State within thirty days from the 8th day of July, 1871, that road, with its franchises and equipments, will also be sold. It was also ordered that the interest of the State, being its mortgage debt, in the Southwestern Railroad and the Western and Northwestern Railroad be sold. It has also resolved that in the meantime sealed proposals for said roads and debts will be received by the Commissioners, and can be sent to the Comptroller at Nashville, to be opened on the day of sale, and should any such proposals be acceptable to the Commissioners no sale of the road to which they apply will be made; but if no such proposals are received, then the sale is to proceed. The Commissioners provide that payments may be made in bonds of the State, and their coupons, one-fourth at the date of the sale, and the residue in one, two and three years from the day of sale, with personal security and a lien upon the property sold. The President of the Southwestern Railroad is here, and offers to purchase said road for the stockholders.

LOUISVILLE.

Railroad Lease.

LOUISVILLE, July 27.—The lease for ninety nine years of the Jeffersonville, Madison and Indianapolis Railroad to the Pennsylvania Central having fallen through, the officers and Directors of the Northwestern Railroad have been negotiating for the sale of their road and stock in the Ohio River Bridge. It is understood arrangements are so far completed and the road will pass into the hands of the Pennsylvania Central corporation at an early day. It is understood the Pennsylvania Central will take two million of stock in the Jefferson road at seventy-five cents on the dollar and assume the bonded and other indebtedness of the Jefferson road. They also agree to take the stock owned by the Jefferson road in the Ohio River bridge at par. This sale will give the absolute control of the Jeffersonville, Madison and Indianapolis Railroad and the controlling interest in the bridge to the Pennsylvania Central.

SENATOR MORTON.

Senator Morton arrived to-night and is the guest of Col. J. F. Buckner. Many persons have called nothwithstanding the late hour of his arrival.

ARKANSAS.

A Political Fight.

LITTLE ROCK, July 27.—Jas. Brooks, leader of the faction of the Republican party opposed to Clayton, made a speech on Wednesday to a crowd near this place, in which he was particularly severe on the Clayton party, charging them with many wrongs and outrages against the people. He advised the negroes to vote for honest men, even if they were Democrats; that many of the latter could be trusted a great deal more than some in their own party. He favored amnesty. The speech was loudly applauded by the negroes, and quite a war has been going on some time between the Clayton and Brooks factions in this county for the negro strength. The latter has all his own way so far.

STATE NEWS.

GREEN county has had severe frosts lately.

THE Huntingdon county Republican Convention will be held on the 15th of August.

JOSEPH BURCHFIELD, a citizen of Clearfield, committed suicide in that place one day last week, by taking laudanum. No cause is assigned for the act.

THE Erie Gazette is in favor of Horace Greeley for the next Republican candidate for President. Mr. Greeley was early in life, a compositor in the Gazette office.

Two weeks ago, last Saturday, a son of John Pratt, near Clinton Station, Beaver county, fell from a swing, striking his head on a knot of a log beneath him with such force as to fracture his skull and cause his death on the Sunday following.

THE Waynesburg Republican came to us last week enlarged and improved in many respects. It is now an eight column paper, and contains a fair amount of reading matter. We hope the Republicans of Green county will give their organ a hearty support.

HENRY ZIMMERMAN, of Fayette township Juniata county, who was convicted in 1861, as an accessory in the murder of Henry Auker, died about two weeks ago, near Richfield.—He had been sentenced to the penitentiary for 12 years, but was released about a year ago.

THE Tionesta Republican says: Last week was the coldest week that we ever experienced in July, and yesterday morning we were obliged to have a fire in our office until about ten o'clock. The weather is heating up, however, and we will probably soon have it hot enough.

THE Clarion Democrat says: Farmers have about finished putting in their wheat crop. The yield will be large, and it was got up in fine condition. Hay is scarce, and selling out of the field for $15 to $20 a ton. Oats are rather short, but filling well, and the crop will be much better than expected. The late showers and warm weather brought forward the corn, and it promises an abundant yield.

THE Tionesta Republican says: John Carney, who has been section boss of section No. 21 for a little over four years, last week resigned his position. We have not learned what his future movements are to be. Mr. Carney is a good citizen and always gave satisfaction to the managers of the road, and to those who live on his section. We regret that he has resigned, and hope it may be filled by as good a man.

THE New Castle Journal says: We have been informed that Rev. Hays of the Catholic Church in this city was waylaid on Friday night last on the old Shenango Bridge, a pistol pointed, and his money demanded; but as he happened to have a similar weapon himself the case was compromised by his taking charge of his assailant and leading him to the light, when he discovered that it was one of his own flock.

THE Waynesburg Messenger says: Sacked wool in large quantities continues to pass through our town en route for the east. On Friday last we noticed an unusually large number of teams laden with this staple on its way to the river for shipment. We would suppose from the amount already shipped that the clip for the present year has been pretty nearly all bought up in this county—the upper end of it at least.

THE Waynesburg Messenger plaintively remarks, Money is scarce in this county. What is the cause of this dearth? We would suppose the great number of horses, cattle and hogs, and the vast quantities of wool and grain that are being bought up within the limits of the county, would have a tendency to throw out the "greenbacks" and make them comparatively flush, for a time at least. But in this we seem to be sadly at fault. What is the reason of this?

JESSE COURTWRIGHT, a farmer living near Jacksonville, Green County, was found lying dead in a field near his house on Monday morning of last week. From the marks on his body, the evidence was conclusive that he was killed by lightning. He lived alone, and it is supposed he had gone out into his field on Sunday evening to right some fences that had been blown down, and that there he had been stricken dead. When discovered by a neighbor his pipe was still held between his teeth.

ACCORDING to a correspondent of the Uniontown Genius, the oldest person in Fayette city is Margaret Lewellen, who lives with William Walters, her son-in-law. She was born in Myrther Tidwell, Glamorganshire, Wales, in 1776, June 4th, being her ninety-fifth year. The old lady still enjoys good health. John H. Bugher is the second oldest man, being in his eighty-fifth year, and can do more hard hauling and wagoning than any one wagoner in town. Marie Britton is the next oldest, being in her ninety-fourth year, and quite smart on foot. She can and does walk to Bellevernon and back, a distance of three miles, seemingly without much fatigue.

THE Washington Reporter says:—Our friend J. L. Henderson, of Chartiers township, while in our office on Saturday last informed us of a rather remarkable circumstance happening within his own experience. He had three full blooded Cotswold lambs last spring from two ewes, and as the mother of the twins died, and the other ewe had no nourishment for hers, he took the three lambs when only a few days old and gave them to a heifer whose first calf had just been taken from her, and she has suckled them all ever since. Strange to say her attachment for them appears to be as strong as if they were her own offspring, and seems to be fully reciprocated on their part. They weighed respectively, a few days ago, 99, 85 and 78 pounds, which goes to show that they have a kind step-mother.

THE Perry Freeman says: "Mr. Wm. M'Kee, of this borough, has now in his possession and for the gratuitous gratification of those interested in or partial to the natural wonders of creation, a living calf with two candal appendages. The extra or additional tail, which is a fac simile of the natural, is attached to the top of the neck, midway between the head and shoulders, about six inches in length and from its general appearance or mode of connection, may prove an ornament of long duration. All classes and conditions of mankind should see this rare curiosity, as it is of itself, not only an object of beauty and attraction, but clearly demonstrates the philosophy of 'more ornamental than useful,' and handsomely burlesques the grace, ease, comfort and utility of many of the fashions of the present day."

THE WEATHER REPORT.

The Bank Reports.

APPOINTMENTS.

WASHINGTON, July 27, 1871.

BANK REPORTS.

There are at present about 1,700 National Banks, all of which are directed by law to send in reports of their dividends and earnings semi-annually, and, notwithstanding blanks are furnished on which to make out their statement, fifteen per cent. of them are gotten up erroneously. In many instances bank clerks in leading cities have transmitted to the Department statements showing that the net earnings at the disposal of their bank amounted to a thousand dollars, while their dividends exceed twenty-five thousand dollars. This is only one example in the many instances of similar errors.

THE WEATHER.

The barometer still remains highest on the South Atlantic coast, and diminishing as we proceed toward the areas of low pressure north of New York and west of Illinois, the area of low pressure advancing over Lake Superior southeastward. The temperature has risen along the Atlantic coast and in the Ohio Valley, and fallen on Lakes Ontario, Michigan and Superior. Northwest winds prevail from Tennessee to New England, veering to the south and southeast, along the Atlantic coast. Fresh northerly winds are reported from Lake Michigan northward and westward. Light rain has fallen since Wednesday at the stations from New England to Missouri and southwardly to the Gulf. Local storms are now threatening from Virginia to Missouri. Clear weather prevails on the Upper Lakes.

Probabilities.—Probable storms of some severity advancing from the east towards Illinois, with brisk winds on the Southern Lake Michigan. Rising barometer with northerly winds probably will continue on Lakes Superior and Huron. Southwesterly winds, with partially cloudy and warm weather, will probably prevail on the Gulf coast on Friday.

KU KLUX.

General John B. Gordon, of Atlanta, Georgia, was examined for five hours today before the Ku Klux Committee, his testimony being much the same as that given by General Wright and Representative Christy. He stated there was no disposition in the State to oppress the negro, and if any outrages were committed they were not countenanced by the people generally. He knew nothing of Ku Klux or any other secret organization for political purposes, but had been asked by some of the most prominent citizens to join an order whose sole object was the protection of life and property and which he did not believe had ever been for political ends. He said there was no hostility in the south to the character of the national Government, but there was a great deal of animosity as to the manner of its administration and cited the military arrest of some of the best men of Georgia, as having done much to create a disturbance with the general government.

IMPOSING FINES.

The Secretary of the Treasury referring to a letter of the department, of the 8th inst., respecting imposing fines on masters of vessels entering Lake Michigan from a part or place in Canada for failing to report to the Deputy Collector of Customs at Mackinaw, as required by the Treasury, circular informs the collector at Chicago that said circular will yet remain in force, and is intended to require masters of all vessels from Canadian ports, designed for ports or places on Lake Michigan, to deliver at Duncan city or Mackinaw a copy of the vessel manifest to the proper officer at one or other places. The collector is required to observe that these regulations do not apply to coasting vessels of the United States which have not been in foreign ports, and that fines exacted for failure to comply with these provisions will be collected under Section five of the act of July 1st, 1870.

NATIONAL AGRICULTURE.

A meeting of the delegates from all agricultural societies, embracing every section of the United States, will take place in this city on the 3d of next October, the object being the organization of an Agricultural Congress. The Tennessee State Fair commences on the same day.

INTERNAL REVENUE.

The records of the Internal Revenue office show 86,178,900 pounds of tobacco, and 732,800,510 cigars, upon which tax was paid last year, according to the census returns, thirty-eight millions, the above would give each person 2¼ pounds of tobacco and 35 cigars during the year ending June 30.

The Legislative Assembly has passed a bill providing for the organization and discipline of the military of District of Columbia. The force is to consist of fifty companies of infantry, five of cavaly and a light battery of four guns.

While in Alexandria he was the guest of the Khedive, and was the recipient of ostentatious attention. It is thought that he and his party will at once set out on their home journey.

INJUNCTIONS DENIED.

Judge Blatchford to-day rendered a decision denying the injunction of Heath, Raphael & Co for an injunction restraining the Erie Railroad Co. from issuing thirty thousand additional shares of stock the plaintiffs having failed to show that there was anything either illegal or irregular in the issuing of the bonds or conversion of them into stock. Judge Blatchford also decided that Jay Gould must, within sixty days, restore its registered value to thirty thousand shares of the Erie stock, which the court has ordered him to restore to the receiver, Jas. H. Coleman, and denied the application of Heath and Raphael for an injunction restraining the famous Loan and Trust Company from increasing its registry of Erie stock.

CLEVELAND.

A Postmaster Arrested.

CLEVELAND, July 27.—John Fogle, postmaster at Cadiz Ohio was arrested and brought here to-day by United States Deputy Marshal Geo. W. Steel at the instance of C. F. Baldwin special agent of the Post Office Department, charged with embezzlement of money order funds amounting to a thousand or fifteen hundred dollars. Upon examination before United States Commissioner White, he was held to bail two thousand dollars to answer at the October term of the United States District Court.

THE LAKE SHORE MEETING.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad to-day, it was voted to refer the conditions of the issue of the fifteen millions of stock to the Executive Committee, which consists of H. T. Clark, Augustus Schell and Charles H. Barker. The knowing ones state that the improvements contemplated will not by a large amount require the fifteen millions, and that the residue will be distributed among the stockholders by selling them the new issue at a sufficient reduction to make a handsome thing for them. The time of the new departure depends upon the circumstances of the Lake and Louisville Railroad, which was sold to-day at Fremont, Ohio, under a decree of the United States Circuit Court, in foreclosure of certain mortgages. It was brought by N. A. Cowdrey and George M. T. Davis, in trust for its creditors.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The Charges Against the State Printer.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 27.—R. J. Bright, State printer, appeared before Justice Fisher this morning to answer a charge of perjury, for which he was arrested on Tuesday, on affidavit of Mr. Fishback, of the Journal. By agreement the case was referred to the Grand Jury, which meets in a few weeks. Mr. Bright gave bail for five hundred dollars, Wm. Henderson and John Fishback, a brother of plaintiff, becoming his bondsmen. The charge is brought for the purpose of opening an investigation into the alleged frauds said to have been committed by the State Printer, whereby the State is defrauded of several thousands of dollars.

HAIL STORM.

Crops Destroyed—Immense Damage.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Reports of the very destructive hail storm that passed, last week, over portions of Sullivan county, this State, and Wayne and Pike counties in Pennsylvania, are just coming in. In Sullivan county, the towns of Momakating, Thompson, Forestburg and Bethel suffered severely by the storm, which was accompanied with terrific thunder and lightning and very high winds. Trees were blown down and growing crops cut to the earth, and two or three barns were struck by lightning. Considerable wheat and rye still uncut was totally destroyed. The corn crop has been seriously affected, and as the drouth of the early summer had rendered the hay crop very light, the prospects confronting the farmers of the country is anything but cheering. It is even considered doubtful whether half the stock of the country can be wintered. In Wayne county, Pa., the storm was very violent, the ground in many places being covered from one to two inches with hail stones. In Damascus, corn, oats and buckwheat were seriously injured. Some fields of corn have been totally destroyed. Hail stones of extraordinary size demolished windows, fruit and gardens as well as crops. Three barns were struck by lightning, all of them being just filled with new grain and hay. Some farmers estimate their damage at from fifteen hundred to two thousand dollars. Two bridges were also blown down in the northern part of the county. In Sussex county, New Jersey, the storm seems to have been very destructive. In the vicinity of Andover, hail stones fell in immense quantities, and laid on the ground in piles several inches deep after the storm had ceased. Sleigh riding was possible from Freedom to Anderson Hill. The storm made a complete sweep, cutting the corn and oats to pieces, leaving the corn mere stalks and stubble entirely stripped of leaves. The fruits and gardens received lasting injuries and the damage to farmers was very great. Jason Wickham's barn, near Colville, was struck by lightning and entirely destroyed. The loss was $4,500, independent of contents. The scene on the track of the storm after it had passed was fearful. Fences down, fields of grain riddled, windows demolished, branches of trees and debris of all kind formed a discouraging sight to the farmer. Up on the Erie Railroad, north of Narrowsburg, the storm did great damage of all kinds.

CINCINNATI.

The Sunday Encroachment.

CINCINNATI, July 27.—The Evangelical ministers of this city held a large meeting this afternoon, which was also attended by a number of prominent laymen, to take action against the proposed repeal of the Sunday Laws. A committee consisting of representatives of nearly all the Evangelical churches of the city was appointed to draft resolutions and to report hereafter. It was determined to hold a mass meeting at Pike's Opera House next Monday evening.

A RAILROAD QUESTION.

There has been considerable talk lately in railroad circles of the Union Depot here, and though there has been no concert of action, yet among representation of the various roads there are some high railroad officials who earnestly support it. The Board of Trade to-day appointed a committee to consult with the railroad men and offer aid to the fullest practicable extent. The Board of Trade also appointed a committee to prepare a proper welcome to the Tennessee Press Association, expected on the 12th prox.

SAN FRANCISCO.

Set on Fire.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—The Buckeye shaft of the Amador mine was set on fire by the Miners League men and extensive damage is anticipated. The Keystone men of Sutter Creek have suspended work for want of water. The strikers are swearing vengeance on the mine owners and officers and more trouble is feared.

SEAL OIL.

It is estimated by the government that the income from the Alaska Seal Island duty will be greatly curtailed for the fact that no seal oil is being saved. The contract binds the lessees to pay the government 62½ cents per gallon on oil taken, but does not bind them to take any oil and as it is worth only 37½ cents at San Francisco none has been taken, the carcasses being allowed to rot after the felt is shipped off.

NEW ORLEANS.

Appointed.

NEW ORLEANS, July 27.—Ex-Recorder Dumont recently removed by the City Council, has been appointed Deputy United States Marshal.

DEAD.

Daniel C. Osborne the first flour inspector appointed by Governor Roman is dead aged seventy-six.

WEATHER.

Rain showers daily; weather cool and pleasant.

PHILADELPHIA.

Forged Money Orders.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—Charles Schiffly was to-day held in $3,000 bail by U. S. Commissioner Biddle to answer the charge of obtaining money from the postoffice on forged money orders.

English Patents.

On the fourth day of July the London Patent Agents met at Southampton Buildings and adopted resolutions to the effect that inasmuch as inventors have a natural right to the use of their inventions, and the true aim of the patent legislation is to harmonize these individual rights with the material interests of the State, therefore the grant of patents to mere "first importors" is unjust to society and to inventers, as it leads to the pirating of inventions. They held, also, that a patent for fourteen years is an inadequate compensation to inventors for their labor and expense, and thought it expedient that patents should be granted for a term of twenty-one years without priviledge of extension. It was deemed well to urge upon legislators the necessity of the reduction of the amount requisite to defray the expenses of an efficient administration of a simple patent system, fees of £10 for the entire term being more than enough to defray necessary expenses. Patents should also be granted at the risks of applicants, without any official supervision or preliminery investigation of the merits of the invention, and the rights of patentees should be determined by a tribunal excluding all technical objections to the validity of the patent, and jurors and "scientific experts" should be dispensed with in the patent suits.

The Peabody Gift.

Peabody Square, London, another block of model dwellings erected under the bequest of George Peabody, will be formally opened on August 1st. The square contains two fine quadrangles of light airy-looking buildings, the white and red brick work of which is relieved by the clusters of trees. The rooms are described as well lighted, well ventilated and thoroughly comfortable. Water pipes run through the buildings, bath rooms are provided in abundance, and the staircases and passages are lighted with gas. The two quadrangles afford accommodations for three hundred and twenty tenants, who pay sixty two cents a week for one room, one dollar for two rooms, and one dollar and a quarter for three rooms. At these rates, it is stated, all the rooms in the buildings have been taken, the applicants being twice as many as the premises could accommodate. Every effort, it is said, was made to insure that the tenants should only belong to the deserving, industrious poor, whom the trust is charged to benefit.

A CORRESPONDENT, writing from Louisiana, says the Chinese Coolies are much cleaner in their habits than the negroes, and there is no squalor about their cabins. The first thing the coolies do, after arising in the morning, is to wash themselves thoroughly in almost scalding water. The same water would par-boil an American. After the labors of the day, and previous to retiring for the night, the same scalding process is gone through with again. The same writer says the Chinese are not altogether a failure, but they are not a real success. The stout, likely negro will do more work in a day than three Chinamen. The work accomplished by the coolies is well done, but they are too slow and nice.

GENERALITIES.

CHEVALIER WIKOFF has received from the American Minister at Madrid an official notification that he has been created by the Spanish Government, Knight Commander of the Royal Order of Isabella la Catolica. This order was founded by Ferdinand and Isabella toward the close of the fifteenth century, and the members are extremely limited in number.

THE Virginia Liberty News says: "A gentleman relates to us a novel and singular sight witnessed on the roadside a few days since. He saw a rabbit attack a very large black snake with the fury of a practised snake dog. The snake had charmed one of the rabbit's young ones, and was in the act of crushing and swallowing it, when its mother put in her timely appearance and saved its life.

A LEADING Philadelphia doctor takes upon himself the duty of correcting the theory that blackberries are useful or harmless in cases where children are convalescing from diarrhœa or cholera infantum. He says: "From close observation during several years, meantime enjoying a large practice, I am forced to believe that there is no other one cause so fatal to life in these complaints as eating blackberries."

ONE of the Paris women, upon being told by the officer who seized her, "You are brave, you have killed two of my men," responded wildly: "May the curse of the Almighty always rest upon my soul for not killing more! I had two sons at Issy, who were both killed, and two at Neuilly, who shared the same fate. My husband died at this barricade, and now do with me what you will." The woman was shot.

A SHARP little fight took place in the Springfield, Tenn., postoffice a few days ago. It occurred about thirty cents in postage stamps, between F. J. Smith, postmaster, and Wm. Harrison. Harrison gave Smith the lie, and the latter knocked the former down and beat him about a little. As Smith was going to dinner the same day Harrison knocked him down with an ax-helve. Somebody interfered and stopped the fight.

THE trouble with Bret Harte, says the Washington Star, is that the Mutual Admiration Society of New England "poicks"—Longfellow, Holmes, Saxe & Co.—have no place for the new aspirant. In view of the long line of stupid or mediocre poems, delivered at Harvard—forgotten as soon as recited, or remembered only for their badness—the fuss made because Brete Harte's effusion was not of the most striking merit, is absurd.

A HAVERHILL, (Mass.) man, who lately lost his pocket-book with $90 in it, has to console himself with this anonymous letter from the finder: "I am a poor man and my health is poor, and it seems to me that you lost that money to benefit me. Therefore I shall borrow it, or most of it. I send you back $4 and the change. You are rich and profess to be a christian I claim to belong to the same family. If the Lord blesses me, I will repay you all if I can; if not, you must look to the Lord for it.

YESTERDAY, Miss Boyd, aged twelve years, swam out beyond the bounds at Fire Island, and the undertow was taking her out to sea. She screamed, and Dr. Robert Potter, son of Bishop Potter, of Pennsylvania, who was bathing near the buoy, pushed out into the waves and took the girl on his back; but when he reached a foothold in shoal water he was at the verge of exhaustion. Dr. Camp, of Great Barrington, Massachusetts, went in and helped out Dr. Potter and the child.—[N. Y. Post, 22d.

Two men in England recently set out to divert themselves, and having donned female attire as an appropriate costume in which to make mischief, set upon a poor railroad switchman, bound him hand and foot, singed off his whiskers and then hung him up by the heels. Not finding sufficient amusement in this, they set the switches and signals so that the trains coming from different directions were likely to come into collision. These men are described as "of respectable connections"—young lords, probably.

THE following is the manner in which the spoils of a recent express robbery in Alabama were divided by the robbers, who were negroes. None of the gang could read, but after the safe was broken, Alfred Crosby tore of the ends of some of the packages, and soon discovered that the largest contained the smallest bills, and consequently the least money. Therefore, in making the divison, Alfred proposed that two small packages should count as one large one, to which the others readily acquiesced; and he then took care to take his share in small packages.

IT IS very mysterious, the propensity which some men and boys have to stand like sentinels at the street corners. In some towns they put on a clean shirt for the corner on Sunday, as good christians do for church. Connecticut, weary of this corner loafing, has forbidden it by statute. The loafer there must move on, and moreover, if while at his corner he addresses to any passer by indecent or insulting language, he is to be fined $7. The same penalty is to be demanded though the language aforesaid ed addressed to nobody in particular. For the luxury of standing and swearing he must pay. It will be safe only for him to stand and swear in a back yard.

"THIS morning I met General Sherman, and strolled down to Congress Spring, and then around the Park. He was vivacious and sparkling as Hathorn water, and walked and talked like a boy. "Do you remember how I managed those Charleston rebels when they wanted to pray for Jeff. Davis in the churches?" asked the General, as we strolled along. 'No. How?' 'Why, said I, 'yes! pray away—he needs it!—and d—n it, if they didn't get mad and go away and pray for Lincoln.' 'Been killing a good many Injuns out West, General?' I asked. 'No; the papers kill more Injuns than we do. Why, if we killed half as many Injuns as the Herald does, we'd be "short" of Injuns'"—[Saratoga Corres. N. Y. Com. Adv.

THE Savannah (Ga.) News of July 18th says: "The Savannah Saber Club, among whose members can be found some of the best horsemen in Georgia, and all of whom were gallant soldiers of the late Confederate States, has received an invitation to visit New York city in September and contend at the head and ring with an organization composed of ex-officers and soldiers of the United States army. The invitation was sent by a number of prominent citizens of New York to our fellow-citizen, Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, who is President of the Saber Club, and is extended to twenty members, to be selected by him. The Savannah club are to hold a meeting to-night to consider the proposition. Ex-Brig. Gen. Stoughton is at the head of the organization that proposes to contend with the Saber Club."

A CORRESPONDENT of the Glasgow Herald transmits the following curious incident: "On Sunday last I had the pleasure of witnessing a most interesting ceremony, which I desire to record for the benefit of your readers. While walking near Falkirk we observed two bees issuing from one of the hives, bearing with them the defunct body of a comrade, with which they flew for a distance of twelve yards. We followed them closely and noted the care with which they selected a convenient hole on the side of the gravel walk, the tenderness with which they committed the body, head downwards, to the earth, and the solicitude with which they afterwards pushed two little stones, doubtless, 'in memoriam.' Their task being ended, they paused for about a moment, perhaps to drop over the grave of their friend a sympathizing tear, and then they flew away to their hives."

THE Peoria Review of the 20th says: "Knoxville has been agog for the past few weeks over a romantic marriage, the particulars of which are as follows: Mr. Philander Williamson and Almena Gardener were married in early life in Warren, Herkimer county, New York, and soon after moved to Albion, Michigan, where the bride, becoming home sick, lived with her husband only two years. At the end of that time her parents moved from Warren to Knoxville, Illinois, and Mrs. Williamson, loving her mother rather better than her husband, followed them, taking with her the child. The separation was acquiesced in by the husband, who soon after moved to California, married another wife, and in the course of time amassed considerable property. This was twenty years ago. Recently the second wife died, and the husband's heart warming towards the bride of his youth, he hastened, as fast as the cars would carry him, back to Knoxville, and on July 15th this strangely-divided couple were re-engaged and re-married."

THE local editor of the Baltimore American shows evident signs of cerebro-spinal menengitis or something, at least that is the way he attacks an inoffensive sunset: At seven o'clock the clouds in the west appeared, as if by mutual consent, to open a space sufficient for the sun to show to humanity that he was in the full vigor of his manhood, and that he did not wish to sink to rest without bidding the earth an affectionate good night. Having prepared himself for rest, he slowly drew his easel around his glowing form and began painting his coverlets. First he painted a curtain of flaring gold, radiant with celestial rays shooting upward to the zenith, where they gradually faded into hues of purple, orange and red intermingled with grey. Then came changeful flashes of glory, like the far-off fluttering of a seraph's wings. The curtain completed, a gorgeous rainbow was thrown over the arc, and as its prismatic colors faded away, the artist spread his mantle of night over the scene, leading the eye onward to repose in the dull leaden clouds above through which, at intervals, the stars attempted to shoot forth their silvery light.

WE regard the erection of public drinking fountains throughout the city as one of the most auspicious signs of the times, and hope that the day is not far distant when Pier, Dannals & Co's cream ale will flow as freely, as water at each of them now does.

HORSE AND BUGGY FOR SALE.—A splendid mare, fast safe and sound in saddle or harness by Dr. Keyser, 167 Liberty street.

Oil Market.

The Courier reports the petroleum market as follows: Sales on the upper road of 1,000 barrels to A. T. Co., at $4.42½; do. do. 200 do. Titusville pipe at $4,50; do. do. 2,000 do. s. o. all year at $4.25; Petroleum Centre, 1,400 do. 47 gravity at $4.80; Rouseville, 250 do. 46 do. at $4.80; do. 180 do. 47 do. at $4.80; lower road, 1,000 do. s. o. all year at $4.50; Oil City, 500 do. 47 gravity at $4.95; do. 2,000 do. Charley Run at $4.95; do. 2,000 do. do. $5.00; do. 1,000 do. 47 gravity at $5.00; do. 1,000 do. 46 do. $5.02½; do. 2,000 do. s. o. 30 days at $4.95. Late last evening the bears were in ascendant, and some transactions were effected on the upper road at decidedly weaker prices. Something of a feeling ruled to-day, and a limited amount of oil was put on the market at the quotations, but buyers, however, were scarce. Sellers options rule on the upper road: $4.50 is the best offer for A. T. Co., and Church Run is for sale at $4.60; on the lower road $4.80 will buy 47 gravity in small quantities, and only such are wanted. There was less confidence shown by holders in Oil City, and sales of good gravity were made at $4.95.

THE Indiana Democrats are growing tired of being called "Ring tailed monkeys" we are told, and desire to make a full and complete departure to Republican principles, or go square back to the platform of their southern brethern and the one dearest to their hearts "The constitution as it was."

A CERTAIN CAPTAIN SMITH is about to attempt to cross the Atlantic Ocean on a raft. It is claimed that this raft, which is about twelve feet square, and is floated on inflated tubes of India rubber, is capable of carrying any number of people who may be crowded upon it. It is regarded as a valuable life saving invention, and it is Captain Smith's intention to prove the great value of the raft as well as his own unbounded faith in it, by thus navigating it across the ocean.

IT is singular how Democratic papers never seem to have any idea of the proprieties, Democratic journalism seems to have the certain and immediate effect of destroying all idea of the bounds within which respectability is confined. Now here is the Philadelphia Age calling aloud, in its usual ill-mannered way, that President Grant should have a part of his salary withheld from him—in fact, that he should be "docked," because of his sojourn at Long Branch. We really hope that this small piece of contemptibility may add to the pleasure of the Age, for it is certainly not of any other use.

OUR neighbor, the Post, does not know who Humboldt was, and it thinks that strangers looking at his monument would be likely to ask who he was. We do not blame the Post for this, because it is not expected to know things, because, in fact, consistency demands that it should be ignorant. It is the champion of the party which tars and feathers teachers, burns school houses, and opposes school laws, and it would be very curious indeed if the Post did know who Humboldt was. Nor indeed is it singular that that goodly newspaper should imagine that he is a local celebrity whose monument ought to be in the Allegheny Cemetery. But fortunately the Democratic party is in a large minority in this country, and most people will know something about the author of Kosmos when they see his memorial.

IT was evidently a philosopher who once said speech is silver, but silence is golden. He must have known, as do the unearthed Tammany knaves, how sweet it is not to hear the watch-dog's honest bark. It is a terrible thing to have a newspaper come swooping down upon you even if you be innocent, but how much more terrible must it be when a man knows himself to be a liar, a scoundrel, a thief and a general knave, and sees an honest journal that knows all about his crimes, ready to pull off his cloak of respectability and leave him naked and exposed to the scorn of the world. Is it any wonder that his appeals to that newspaper have a metallic ring about them? And what a power must not that newspaper feel in itself, that knows that it has one million dollars' worth of silence that is not for sale!

THE RECENT DECISION in the case of Milward et al. vs. the Western Union Telegraph Company, is a very important one to our business men. It appears that in 1866 Milward & Co. received a cipher message from Baltimore, in which the word "shun" occurred instead of the word which was written, which had an entirely different meaning. The result was proven that Messrs. M. & Co. suffered through the mistake of the company to the amount of six thousand dollars, and to recover this amount, suit was brought. The court held that the defendant was not responsible, inasmuch as the error was an unavoidable one, owing to the message not being written intelligibly, or in such language as to enable the operator to understand it, and detect an improper word. We think there is sound reason in this decision, and when cipher messages are used, the company should not be held responsible, as it is impossible for them to detect mistakes.

Absolute accuracy can only be had by repeating the message, and where the matter is of sufficient importance as to justify a cipher being used, the sender should avail himself of the only method for avoiding all possible mistakes.

THE Post does not like the figures of the address of the Republican State Committee, which is not to be wondered at, as they place the Democratic party of this State in no enviable light before the people.

The address does not undertake to give figures in an official form, but states the debt of the State "in round numbers," in 1860 and 1871, to show the reduction which the Republican party has brought about. The figures were probably given from memory, and are sufficiently near the actual figures to establish the fact that, under the Republican management, the State debt has been steadily growing less and is in a fair way of being extinguished.

The Governor's message for 1861 states the total debt of the State, December, 1, 1859, (when both branches of the legislature were for the first time Republican) at $38,638,961. On the first of July last it was $29,546,587. The account then stands thus:

State Debt, Dec. 1, 1859	$38,638,961
War Debt, since contracted	3,500,000
Total debt	$42,138,961
State Debt, July 1, 1871	29,546,587
Total reduction since Dec. 1, 1859	$12,592,374

Our authority for the debt figures, July 1, 1871, is the official statement of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, published according to law, on that date.

But, says the Post, there were, in 1859, over $10,000,000 in the Sinking Fund, the proceeds of the sale of Public Works. It is that fund which paid off the debt. We answer, that that sum is still in the Sinking Fund, very little reduced. The Post will have to find some other hiding place than that.

The figures we have here given are, we think a complete vindication of the correctness of the State Committee's address.

THE QUEEN'S DOWRY.

It appears that somewhat more importance than at the time was expected, attached to the inquiry the other day by Mr. George Dixon, member from Birmingham in the House of Commons, and a Liberal, addressed to Mr. Gladstone, as to whether the "civil list" might not be reduced. This list represents the amounts retained by the Crown from the revenues, for the support of the Queen and her household, and at present is fixed at $3,000,000, which is quite a respectable salary. In view of so many of the Queen's children marrying of late and having establishments of their own set up for them by Parliament, the question of the reduction of her portion becomes quite pertinent, and demands attention. The reply of Gladstone to Dixon's question does not appear to have been entirely satisfactory, viz: that the present list was in the shape of a solemn compact with the crown, and could not be violated, or disturbed during her life time. The people of Birmingham, whom Mr. Dixon represents in the House of Commons, and whom he formerly served as their Mayor, are very practical and sagacious, and represent the highest English intelligence. They are also fit representatives of the honest, industrious, "bone and sinew" of the land. It appears that they are fairly represented in Parliament by a very practical, intelligent, common sense man, who evidently believes that three million dollars, or rather six hundred thousand pounds, sterling, are more than the Queen's services are worth to the people of England; always having in mind, at the same time, a due regard for the appearance required, by society, of royality. The Queen undoubtedly under the laws, can claim the full amount during her life time, as this appears to have been fixed at the commencement of her reign, and cannot legally be reduced. Formerly all of the revenues of the realm went to the crown it graciously appropriating from its private fund sufficient sums to carry on the government. But during the reign of George III, this right was relinquished, and the subsequent Kings and Queens have received a fixed amount of the revenues, annually, the rest being appropriated through Parliament for the support of the government. Queen Victoria shows no disposition to reduce the amount of her annual receipts, although they are much larger than she can possibly need. She is said to be worth in actual money, and estates, in her own right, fifteen millions of dollars, all of which have been saved since the death of her husband, and her virtual withdrawal from society. The London trades-people who formerly derived a handsome revenue from her expenditures for balls, parties, receptions, etc., have of late years bitterly complained of the Queen's seclusion, and miserly habits. What has been their loss, has been her gain, as her well filled coffers attest.

We would not be surprised if the little spark quietly thrown out in the House of Commons by Mr. Dixon, would result in quite a flame, and that, before a great while. The people are evidently growing tired of the extravagance of royalty, and if once this feeling finds clear expression, causing the public, and the press to agitate it by discussion, there is no telling where it will end. It would not be very difficult, nor require a great stretch of one's imagination, to foresee even in so slight a beginning as this, and with the present prevailing unrest of the working people of Britain, the downfall of royalty itself. With the prospect of her prodigal son, as her successor, before them, Liberalism will take no step backward, but grow and fatten on its past triumphs, until there being no other fields to win, it may strike the crown itself from fair Victoria's brow, leaving her the last, as she has been the best and wisest sovereign of proud Britannia.

THE LATEST VILLAINY.

We all remember the tremendous flourish of trumpets on the occasion of the Democracy, through brazen frauds and corruptions of a sickening character, carrying the State of Indiana a year or so ago. We also remember the revolutionary proceedings of the Democratic legislature in attempting to reverse the action of the previous session on the fifteenth amendment. Since then they have been fully demonstrating their incapacity and untrustworthiness, in a variety of ways, each one vying with his mate to see how arbitrary and offensive he could render himself, and how much annoyance he could give to citizens, who were compelled to have business relations with him.

As a sequel to all this, comes the news of detected fraud, perjury, and villainy of a truly Democratic order, and only surpassed in amount by the confessed robberies of the New York Treasury, by the Tammany Ring. The state printer is a Democrat, by name Richard J. Bright, of the Indianapolis Sentinel, probably a near kinsman of one Jesse D. Bright, of immortal memory, who hailed from the same state, and who was expelled, it we remember correctly, from the Senate of the United States, for entertaining treasonable sentiments; at any rate he is a political relation, and belongs to the same party, and is after the same things—"treason, stratagem, and spoils—" that the other has always been known to be. The telegraph informs us that Mr. Bright has been arrested and held for examination, on a charge of perjury, in swearing to false accounts, and that the Democratic State Central Committee had been convened in special session to receive Mr. Bright's explanation. It further appears that the accused did not put in an appearance before this august tribunal. Democracy in Indiana appears to be in a high state of perturbation over the expose of this rascality, and rightly imagine that it will have a damaging effect on the party in the fall election. In extenuation, we are informed, the virtuous Dan Voorhies and others, urge that Bright was impelled to these pecadilloes "in order to sustain his paper." Well, that is good. We like an open acknowledgment, attended with a good excuse. In order that the Democratic organ of Indiana, viz: the Sentinel, shall not perish from the earth, and leave the unterrified of Indianapolis unrepresented, its editor and proprietor, the State printer, must STEAL enough from the State Treasury through false accounts to sustain it. So says Dan Voorhies, and Coffreth. But we are told, further, that Bright, was only acquiring, by this means a temporary loan from the State,—doubtless through the connivance of the other "Apostles of Reform," the Democratic office holders—and that the amounts, so obtained through perjury and gross fraud, "would be returned at the end of his term." If there be any marines, in the neighborhood of Indianapolis, we beg that this modest tale be unfolded to them, as it is entirely too humble to be taken in by landsmen, at least those acquainted with a modern Democrat, and his well known failings.

We are further informed "that there were some sharp words between the Bright and anti-Bright Rings." Evidently the editor of the Pittsburgh Post was not there, and knew nothing whatever of this melee. The telegraph appears to have skipped him, too, as he says not a word about this latest effort of one of his office-holding brethern. This is strange, for he is an avowed enemy of delinquents and such, but may be, not of perjurers and thieves, especially when the evil-doers hail from the party of reform, the great "Departed." But seriously, this sad case of official corruption is but a further proof of what the Democratic party leaders have given us so many illustrations of, viz: that they are not to be trusted in power. Look at New York, Kentucky, Georgia, Tennessee, wherever the Democrats are in office, the record is the same; a spirit of diabolism appears to pervade them, and render them incapable of acting honestly, or for the good of the people. Might it not grow out of the facts that they have waited long for official positions, and spent large amounts to acquire them, and in anticipation of a speedy return to private life, every opportunity must be taken to rob and swindle the people before the inevitable hour arrives for taking their final and permanent "Departure." But why is it that our neighbor the Post, the champion par excellence of honesty and reform, takes no note of such villainy? Neither in the case of the bankrupt treasury of Kentucky, nor in the flagrant robberies in New York, nor yet in this latest case of Democratic depravity, does it raise its warning voice—why is it?

POLITICAL.

GENERAL S. F. CAREY is mentioned as a probable candidate for one of the five County Judgeships of Hamilton county, Ohio, to be filled this fall.

THE Boston Times counts up twenty-seven candidates for the next Governorship of Massachusetts, to say nothing of those who are quietly "indulging a hope."

THE Lebanon, Pa., Courier says that the Democratic party at the present moment reminds one of a wasp—very nearly in two pieces, with the larger piece behind.

MAYOR GILBERT PILLSBURY, of Charleston, South Carolina, has been renominated by the Republicans. He has been a good officer. The "Citizens'" candidate is General John A. Wagener.

IT is reported that General Butler will canvass Massachusetts in behalf of his own nomination for Governor between this time and the meeting of the Republican Convention, September 27.

THE Republican State Central Committee of Illinois has called a State Convention to meet at Springfield, September 20, to nominate a candidate for Congressman at large, and for other purposes.

A PROHIBITION Temperance Convention for Franklin county, Ohio, met in Columbus on Saturday last, and nominated a full county ticket, including Representatives to the Legislature. This was the first convention of the kind ever held in Franklin county.

THAT noted and unclean Democrat, Henry Clay Dean, says: If the Republicans were right in making the war, creating the debt, and changing the constitution, I can see no reason why a new set of leeches should now be applied to the body politic for the mere variety of change.

THE New York Tribune says: "New Jersey went Republican last fall, and this circumstance, together with the manly position taken by her Governor the other day, has induced the Rochester Union and Advertiser, a prominent Democratic organ, to call Governor Randolph a 'Radical.' This is a very pardonable error."

IN Baltimore a prominent official was caught in the act of stuffing the ballot-box at one of the voting precincts, on Wednesday of last week. One of the Judges of the election seized his arm just as he was about to put a roll of tickets into the box, and the parcel was taken out, when eleven ballots were counted. The enterprising politican waited not for the counting, but walked away with the remark, "Everything is fair in politics."

The Pleasures of Sea Voyaging.

A Pittsburgher abroad writes to us the following account of the way they amuse themselves on board the Calabria during a recent voyage to Liverpool: During the voyage the passengers endeavored to enjoy themselves as much as weather and space would permit, and quite a variety of sports were indulged in. One gentleman conceived the idea of making a kite, and, after considerable trouble, succeeded to a miracle in manufacturing one of the first order, out of two or three old barrel hoops and a copy of the New York World. The tail was furnished by the ladies, and consisted of variegated diminutive pieces of dry goods, of which the ladies only knew the use. Some people have disputed the utility of the World, but for this purpose, it answered well, and with its crude wooden border and "spotted tail," it became quite an object of interest, at a distance, but only for a time, for the string broke one fine day and it went sailing away.

No little excitement was caused on board from another source. It appears that a vessel belonging to an opposition company, and which had the reputation for making good time (Inman's City of Paris,) started out about an hour and a half before the Calabria. In consequence of this many bets were made that the one or the other would reach Queenstown first, and as we neared that point, all were anxious to know the result. Presently, we were informed that our opponent had not yet arrived, but had been signalled and would be in about two hours after our departure for Liverpool. The cheering and shouting were, for a time, not a little confusing. Some of the losses, I know, were not a little heavy.

Woman's Wrongs in Saxony.

The Chemnitzer Freie Presse gives an account of a meeting of workingwomen held at Chemnitz a short time ago. About 300 persons were present. The first speaker was Fraulein Emilie Misselwitz. She appealed to her hearers to testify to the grounds of complaint they all had in consequence of low wages, excessive fines, and even actual ill-usage. She asserted that the condition of their lives urgently required alteration, and that it was their sacred duty to take part in the struggles of men, with whom they should place themselves on an equal footing. The principal male speaker was Herr Upert, who, while representing the position of workingwomen in various lights, endeavored to persuade his hearers to organize themselves if they could be helped out of their misery. He particularly warned them not to give ear to the promptings of the clergy, who, he said, taught men resignation and patience from childhood, and preached that every one should be in subjection to authority (but capitalists are not included in this term); and they further told people that when a child died it was a dispensation of God. The speaker then exhorted the assembly to take the amelioration of their position into their own hands instead of exercising patience and resignation; to beware of letting their children imbibe hurtful prejudices, and to be persuaded in cases of death of children that their want and misery had killed them. Having considered the circumstances of trade with regard to the position of women and mentioned special cases, he advised his female hearers to enter into the Association, and recommended agitation to obtain the same wages for women as for men.

Singular Shipwreck.

A correspondent furnishes the Eufaula (Ala.) News with the following incident: On last Friday, as a sloop was coming into Apalachicola under a very gentle breeze, with fifty bars of railroad iron, taken from the vessel wrecked some weeks since on the breakers off Dog Island, she was thrown on her side by a sudden gale, filled with water and commenced sinking in about twenty-one feet of water. This occurred about one mile from shore, and two of the three men who composed the crew, clung to the rigging while the other was swinging at large. After sinking for a while the sloop careened over, the iron rolled off her decks, and she immediately commenced to rise. Having reached the surface she was towed ashore, pumped dry and taken into port uninjured. Two of the crew were bitten by sharks, one of them badly in several places.

Crops in England.

A correspondent, writing to us from England, July 10th, says: The crops here are all looking very healthy and promising, but it is feared that in consequence of such a wet summer, wheat will not yield well, though there is an abundance of straw. Potatoes are looking first rate, but on heavy land they require dryer weather or they will be diseased or rot. The meadows generally are very good, but the weather is unfavorable to getting the hay in, in good order. Many who have carried their's find that it is heating much in the stack. Everything appears to want dryer, warmer weather. I guess harvest will commence in about five weeks from now.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Richmond, Va., Whig, writes from Waynesboro, Augusta county, Va., says: The largest and richest vein of iron ore ever discovered in this State was found a few days ago on the farm of J. Dorsey Hanger, lying at the base of the Blue Ridge, near this place, measuring thirty-six feet wide. There are also three smaller veins running parallel from five to ten feet apart.

The Spiders and the Weather Prophets.

Last Wednesday we made our usual morning study of the Weather reports. Among the "Probabilities" we found the following announcement: "A falling barometer, with threatening and rainy weather, will probably prevail very generally Wednesday in the Middle and Eastern States;" the threatening part of the prophecy was already in process of fulfilment, for heavy clouds covered the sky, and everything looked as if the long-wished-for rain might soon descend. While we watched the signs of the coming storm, we chanced to cast our eyes upon a neighboring bank, and there we saw countless "lady mantles" covering the grass with their gauzy tissue. When these tiney spiders put out their webs it is a sign that there will be no rain, is an adage which has come to us sanctioned by the authority of ages of observation. Now we have faith in the Washington War Department, and in the reports that come from the office of the Chief Signal Officer. But we have greater faith in the spiders, for they possess that wonderful hereditary instinct, which, garnering up the experience of untold generations of preceeding spiders, teaches them the times and seasons when they may safely build their gossamer habitations, without fear of destruction from the strife of the elements.

All day we watched the contending forces, and when the first umbrella was opened, and the gentle rain drops seemed the forerunners of the heavy shower that must follow, we thought our friends the spiders had made a wrong calculation for once. But we reckoned without our host, for only a little sprinkling came before the clouds broke away, and sunshine and starlight gained the victory. The last thing we noted as the twilight faded into the gray of evening was the "lady mantles" till stretched upon the greensward. There they hung like fairy palaces, silver-grey in tint, gossamer in texture, and light and airy enough still for the dwelling place of the mortal maiden Arachne, who daring to compete with Minerva in a trial of skill at the loom as a punishment for her temerity, was changed by the indignant goddess into a spider, still retaining and transmitting her power of weaving a web, as fragile, delicate and graceful as any product of human skill has ever produced.—Providence Journal.

Ben Butler at College.

The "Editor's Drawer" of the August Harper's has this story about General Butler:

We have a very good story of the Hon. Benjamin F. Butler that has not yet found its way into the newspapers: When a student in the college it was binding on the students to attend the college church—a duty which to him was very irksome. On one occasion he heard the preacher (who was also a professor) advancing propositions like the following: 1. That the elect alone would be saved. 2. That among those who, by the world, were called Christians probably not more than one in a hundred belonged really and truly to the elect. 3. That the others, by reason of their Christian privileges, would suffer more hereafter than the heathen, who had never heard the Gospel at all. Mr. Butler, whose audacity was as conspicuous as his reverence, made a note of these propositions, and on the strength of them drew up a petition to the faculty, soliciting exemption from further attendance at the church, as only preparing for himself a more terrible future. For, said he, the congregation here amounts to six hundred persons, and nine of these are professor. Now, if only one in a hundred is to be saved, it follows that three even of the faculty must be damned. He (Benjamin F. Butler) being a mere student, could not expect to be saved in preference to a professor. Far, he said, be it from him to cherish so presumptuous a hope! Nothing remains for him, therefore, but prediction. In this melancholy posture of affairs he was naturally anxious to abstain from anything that might aggravate his future punishment; and, as church attendance had been shown in last Sunday's sermon to have this influence on the non-elect, he trusted that the faculty would for all time coming, exempt him from it!

The result of this petition, written out in an imposing manner, and formally presented to the faculty, was that Butler received a public reprimand for irreverence, and, but for the influence of one or two friends in the faculty, would have been expelled.

Pike's Peak.

The New York Sun says: "Pike's Peak is to be made a fashionable summer resort, to which the new narrow gauge Denver & Rio Grande Railroad is expected to carry throngs of tourists in pursuit of health and pleasure. A party of gentlemen have concluded the purchase of a tract of land which includes the famous Colorado Springs at the base of the mountain, and will proceed to lay out two towns, one on the railroad, to be called Colorado Springs, where next spring a hotel is to be built to cost $100,000, and the other, which is to be christened Villa La Font, at the springs proper, five miles from the railroad. There will also be erected a hotel, to be called the Tip-Top House, on the summit of Pike's Peak. These springs are four in number; the largest has formed a basin of six or eight feet across, from the centre of which boils up a violent current. All of them are strongly impregnated with carbonic acid gas; their temperature is about 65 degrees, and they are credited with powerful healing virtues. One of them was called by the Indians, 'The Beast,' as it was formerly resorted to by infirm wild animals in great numbers and from remote points, for the purpose of benefitting by its curative powers. The view from the city of Villa La Font is described as exceedingly grand. In the background and in the centre of the semicircle rises the grand dome of Pike's Peak; immediately in front and left, and about eight miles away, reaches heavenward Cheyenne Mountain; and on the right are the 'gardens of the gods,' to which visitors, we presume, will be admitted free. A wagon road will be made from Villa La Font to near the summit of Pike's Peak, and a trail route the remainder of the way, for the benefit of tourists. The city of Villa La Font has not made much progress as yet—in fact, the ground has not been surveyed; but when it is built it is to have four hundred and eighty elegant villas, with all the modern improvements."

The Mont Cenis Tunnel.

The People's Gazette, of Turin, gives the following denial to the statement of alleged difficulties in the working of the Mont Cenis Tunnel: "No experimental train has passed through, for the simple reason that the line is blocked up, by the works for the construction of the interior casing, and which will not be terminated for another twenty days, and consequently no smoke-consuming locomotives have been ordered in England, as stated. The temperature inside the tunnel is not 32 degrees Reamer, (104 degrees Fahrenheit,) but only 29½ degrees Centig, (85 degrees Fahrenheit.) The result of special studies made is that the natural ventilation due to the internal temperature and the difference of levels between the two openings will prevent any inconvenience to passengers. A communication on the same subject in the Salute Public of Lyons says: "In reality the tunnel is terminated from end to end, but not everywhere to its entire width, and in no part are the rails laid down permanently, and as yet all materials have to be removed by carts drawn by horses. Three thousand workmen are engaged in enlarging the passage, and as gunpowder has still to be used, the atmosphere is occasionly charged with smoke, and the ventilating apparatus continues to be necessary. The question of the atmosphere in the interior still remains undecided, but it is not likely to form on obstacle to scientific men, as the movements of the train at fifteen miles an hour will, it is believed, be sufficient to displace and renew the air; and, if not, the present ventilating apparatus can be continued at a small expense, as its motive power is obtained by a fall of water from the mountain."

Whited Sepulchres.

The monuments in the Abbey and in the chapel of Henry VII. are all very fine to the eye; but under the floor on which they stand are caverns literally "full of dead men's bones and all uncleanness." The Stuart vault is a notable example of this. It was opened in the course of the recent efforts to settle the questions as to where Mary Queen of Scots was buried, and as to who was buried in the vault with her. Taking up some of the slabs of the pavement, stone steps were discovered leading downwards; at the foot was found a vault about thirteen feet long by seven wide and six high. "A startling, it may almost be said an awful, scene presented itself. A vast pile of leaden coffins rose from the floor, some of full stature, the larger number varying in form from that of the full-grown child to the merest infant, confusedly heaped upon the others, while several urns of various shapes were tossed about in irregular positions throughout the vault."—London Letter.

THE Republican workmen of Harrisburg are urging the nomination of Mr. Andrew Black, of that city, as one of the candidates for Assembly.

WHEN the Emperor of Brazil arrived at Lisbon, the King of Portugal sent his Chamberlain to say that the royal palace of Necessidadus had been specially prepared for his reception. But the Emperor declined the offer, observed that he was in mourning, that he had come to Europe on a tour of study and observation, and that he should feel that he was less in the way of his royal relations if he stayed, like any private gentleman, at one of the hotels.

THE BEST TRUSSES IN THE WORLD.

If there is any infirmity that needs care and extra attention it is that of Rupture of the bowels, as there can hardly be any protrusion of them, even for an hour, without endangering life and exposing the patient to imminent peril. We have examined hundreds of persons who have gone all the rounds in the vain endeavor to obtain suitable Trusses to retain their rupture, and without being successful Not one of these cases but could have been cured in the early stage of rupture, and even after years of neglect many of them can be cured, if they will only make application to some one thoroughly conversant with the malady in question. What, to most persons, is the expense of a few dollars for a well-fitting Truss, properly applied, when in many cases it is the means of saving a life and adding to his comfort for years? The prevailing belief that rupture is incurable has done incalculable mischief by making persons careless with regard to the same; whilst, if they did try to get well, they can certainly be no worse off for having made the attempt. There are so many cases that resemble rupture that we would advise all our readers to make application to a competent establishment, such as Dr. KEYSER'S, 167 Liberty street, where Trusses from two to twenty dollars can be obtained.

A PERILOUS SEASON.

Glorious and delightful as the Summer weather is, its tropical heat is a severe trial to the vital powers. Even the strongest are sometimes prostrasted by its effects. The common phrase applied to this condition of the body is "general debility." Now, general debility arises from, and includes a variety of ailments. The liver is more or less affected, the bowels are either constipated or too much relaxed, the stomach but half performs the work of digestion, the appetite is poor, and the spirits depressed. This is what is called general debility. It is a general disarrangement of all the physical functions, and requires as a remedy a medicine that will regulate them all. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is specially adapted to this purpose. Its general operation is not confined to a single organ. If the liver is affected, it restores its tone. If the stomach is torpid, it regenerates it. If the nerves are tremulous and weak, it braces and reinforces them. If the mind, which ever sympathizes with the body, is gloomy and despondent, it relieves the difficulty, and soon brings the whole mechanism of the body into harmony with the laws of health.

There is no civilized nation in the Western Hemisphere in which the utility of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a tonic, corrective, and antibilious medicine, is not known and appreciated. Throughout the Tropics it is considered, both by the people and the profession, the standard specific. While it is a medicine for all seasons and all climates, it is especially suited to the complaints generated by the weather, being the purest and best vegetable stimulant in the world.

Beware of the Bitters made of acrid and dangerous materials, which unscrupulous parties are endeavoring to foist upon the people. Their name is legion, and the public has no guarantee that they are not poisonous. Adhere to the tried remedy, Hostetter's Bitters, sold only in glass and never in kegs or barrels.

Governments dull and steady; at the close May and November issues advanced slightly.

Stocks dull; Pacific Mail, Reading, New York Central and St. Paul and Wabash have been strong and good, and buyers are taking them; Western Union and Ohio firm, without much doing. Lake Shore declined nearly one per cent., from the highest point of the day upon the reception of the news from Cleveland in regard to the action of the Directors of the road. The Express says upon this subject, all that is known is that the stockholders have given the Executive Committee and Board of Directors authority to issue fifteen million dollars worth of new stock whenever they think proper, and to call up whatever cash they think proper on the new stock. This leaves the subject as much befogged as ever, and makes the future course of speculation in stock depend on the action of this committee, who will probably return to New York before doing anything. What Wall street wants to know are the terms on which the new stock is to be issued, and until these are known, there will be endless chances for pool to make money in working stock up and down. Erie lower, on receipt of the report that Judge Blatchford has rendered a decision in the Erie case in favor of the present managers; deciding that they have a right to issue convertible bonds. The market closes dull; money very easy 2@3; State bonds dull; Missourians very weak.

—The Chicago Tribune, of Wednesday, says: "In local finances and trade business is growing more stagnant every day, the only activity being the speculation in wheat, which caused considerable fluctuation in prices to-day. A currency price of $1.15 for "cash wheat," to-day, is equal to $1.02 per bushel in gold. This latter is just the price to which wheat advanced on the 19th of July, 1870, when the formal declaration of war was made by France, and it had become certain that Europe would require an unusual supply of breadstuffs at war prices. As there is nothing in the present situation to warrant the expectation of a European demand to compare with what was anticipated then, and as crops in all parts of the world are at least equal to, if not more promising than, a year ago, there is nothing to warrant present prices being equal to the war prices of a year ago.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, July 27, 1871.

ASHES—Common Soda ash, 4@4¼; refined, 4½@4¾; Pearls, 9; Pots, 7½; Nitrate Soda, 4½.

BUTTER—There is but little inquiry and the market is reported quiet and unchanged; 12@14c for fair to medium, and 16@18c for prime to choice.

BEANS—Prime navy in demand, and would command $2,00@2,25 per bushel.

BROOM CORN—Small sales at 5@7 cts.

BEESWAX—Quoted at 33@35c.

CEMENT—Louisville, $2,50@3,00 per bbl. Rosendale, $4,00@4,50; Calcined Plaster, $4,25@4,50.

COUNTRY MEAT—The supply is considerably reduced, but there is not much inquiry for it. Country Lard, 9@10c.

CANNED GOODS—The season is about over and as there is little doing in goods of this character we omit quotations.

CHEESE—Prime Ohio Goshen, 10½@11; prime Factory, 9½@10; Dairy, 8@9.

CORN MEAL—The inquiry is light and mainly for small lots, while prices remain unchanged, 80@85 per bushel.

CARBON OIL—Standard brands, in 25@50 barrel lots quoted at 24—usual advance in a small way.

EGGS—The supply of strictly fresh eggs is comparatively light but the demand is only moderate and prices remain unchanged; 16 cts seems to be regarded as the ruling quotation.

FRUITS—Green Apples scarce and in active demand, and prices are higher; we now quote at $4@5,50 per bbl. for fair to choice. Peaches in good supply but unchanged, $1,50@2 25 per box. Plums coming in more freely and lower, $3,50@4 per box. Pears, $1,50@2. Blackberries, $1,00@1.20 per bucket or $6@7 per stand, said to contain two bushels. Foreign Fruits dull. Lemons, $7,50@8 per box for repacked. Oranges none in market and but very little inquiry for them. Layer Raisins dull; $2,75@3 per box. Valencia Raisins, 12½@13 cts per lb. Turkey Prunes 10 cts. Currants 10 cts.

FLOUR—The market continues dull and heavy though there is no quotable change in prices; $6,75 for good spring extras; $7 for choice Minnesota's, and $6,75@7 for good to choice red winter wheat. Buyers generally are holding off in anticipation of lower prices, and consequently there is but little doing.

GRAIN—Wheat continues dull and weak, and, notwithstanding the receipts are light and the stock in the hands of dealers almost exhausted, prices are lower; we now quote new red at $1,15@1,20 and old at $1,20@1,25—we are reported a sale of two cars prime old, to arrive, at $1,25. The supply of old Oats is pretty well reduced, and there is considerable inquiry for small lots, and, in consequence, there is a little firmer feeling; future deliveries, however, are no better, as the impression still prevails that as soon as the new crop is ready to move prices will go lower. Old crop, on spot, may be quoted at 60@61, by the car load, in bulk—it is difficult to sell a car load, as buyers only want small lots—just enough to keep them going. New crop, to arrive, by the car load, 47@50—we are reported some few sales, in second hands, at 55. Corn is coming in more freely, and the market is weak and lower; we are reported sales of mixed ear, in bulk, at 65; mixed shelled may be quoted at 67@68, and prime yellow shelled at 69@70. Rye is dull, and in the absence of sales, may be quoted at 75@80. Nothing doing in Barley—no established quotations as yet.

GROCERIES—Rio Coffee is reported firmer in the east, and the recent advance is fully maintained. The stock of Brazils in the country, as made up by Wm. Scott & Sons, is 172,790 bags, including 2,500 bags at Galveston, 7,654 at New Orleans, 4,116 at Mobile, 60,523 at Baltimore and 97,997 at New York. Raw Sugars, firmer and a shade higher—refiners remain unchanged. However, refiners claim that refined sugars are too low, as compared with raws, and that there will soon have to be an advance in the one or a decline in the other. Molasses and Syrups, dull and unchanged.

COFFEE—Fancy Rio, 19½; Prime, 18½; Good, 17; Fair, 16½; Roasting, 15½@16.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY July 27, 1871.

The stagnation which has characterized the petroleum market for some weeks past still continues, and while hopes of an early improvement are still entertained, the indications at present are not very promising. The great drawback is the high price of crude, as compared with refined, and it is very evident that there must be a change in the position of the market, one way or the other, before there can be any material or healthy improvement. As there is no indication at present of any advance in the price of refined, the general feeling here is that there must be a decline in crude, though the producers continue obstinate, and refuse to make concessions sufficient to justify refiners in buying; the former are holding back in hopes that the home trade for refined will soon open up, and that then refiners will be able to buy crude at about present prices. Private and reliable advices from Cleveland represent that the situation there is no better than it is here, and for the same cause, and it is said that some of the largest refining establishments threaten to close their works as soon as they fill pending contracts, unless there is a radical change in the situation. Advices from the east are not very encouraging. Exporters are reported as buying sparingly, notwithstanding the low price of refined, and the outlook generally is by no means promising.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, July 27.—There is but little change in the features of the market. Trade is not yet fully opened, and there is a hardening of prices throughout that leads to the belief that buyers will gain nothing by deferring purchases; still caution appears to be the ruling power in the dry goods market, notwithstanding the great ease in the money market. RIVER NEWS.

The river rose considerably yesterday, but the rise was owing to the water being drawn from pool No. 1. It is possible, however, that there may be a slight swell under the influence of the recent heavy rains.

Two light draft tow boats have gone down to bring up the hull for W. H. Brown's new tow boat.

—The bell boat Salvor is removing the furniture from the cabin of the Olive Branch, and it is not at all likely she will be raised. One of her pilots says he thinks her entire bottom is torn out. Concerning the suddenness with which she sunk, the Missouri Democrat says: "The engineer was driven from his engine and escaped to the hurricane roof. He was standing there when he heard the pilot shouting down the pipe leading to the engine room, 'Engineer, why don't you go ahead on her?' He didn't know that the boat was sunk. By the watch, she sank in one minute and a half after striking. Whose watch it was; or who the self-possessed watcher, we did not inquire. The boat was drawing seven feet when she struck."

—Capt. Coleman Neil, who recently died in Louisville, will be remembered by many of the old citizens of New Albany and Louisville as the owner of the famous steamer Homer, built in that city in 1832, and commanded by Capt. William Gay, now living in Louisville. The Homer was a three-decker, and the heaviest boat ever built on Western waters. She was one of the most famous steamers in the early days of Western steamboating, and many of the old steamboatmen yet refer to her prowess. Every summer it was the custom of her owners to beach her on Sand Island, and, after propping her up, dig the sand from under her, to enable carpenters and caulkers to repair her bottom.

—We clip the following items from the St. Louis Democrat: Captain J. J. Russell is back from Salt Lake and Utah Territory. Captain Joab Lawrence has now his headquarters in Salt Lake City, and has invested largely in silver mines and machinery, and is already making money. He's building a quartz-mill, and has a smelter in operation. There is talk about the Republic going to New Orleans this week. Captain Dan Richards, the well known Louisville boat builder, has bought the wreck of the Ollie Sullivan, in the Tennessee. The towboat Hunter is being blocked up, preparatory for a launch from Diamond Island, where she has been aground for some time.

—Captain Palmer, of the Cincinnati Board of Underwriters, has gone to the wreck of the Olive Branch. It is thought no attempt will be made to raise her, as a diver went into the hold and found the break extending way beyond the cylinder timbers, and growing worse the further it went. The sinking was caused by her striking a stump near the forward end of her bottom, which tore her wide open near the kelson and between the wheels. She sunk in two minutes, lying straight on the log, with four feet water on the main deck.

—The steamer Greenback will arrive at Evansville about September 1st, on her way to Cairo, removing the obstructions to navigation from the channel of the river, and if the Evansville and Cairo Packet Company wish to place one of their pilots on the boat for the purpose of pointing out such obstructions as they want removed, they will have the privilege of doing so, provided that such pilot is paid for his services by the packet company.

—Mr. George Williamson, the well known pilot, and brother to Captain James Williamson, of the Emma Graham, died at his home in Ravenswood, on Saturday.

—Capt. Dave Campbell has purchased the light-draught steamers Bertha and Deer Lodge, to be kept as lighters between St. Louis and Cairo.

—The Mary E. Poe, St. Louis to Red River, passed Cairo on Sunday with a fair trip.

The City Treasurership.

MESSRS. EDITORS: The communication published a few days ago in the Dispatch under the signature "A Workingman Who Pays Taxes," contained several suggestions and ideas touching the City Treasurership question that deserve a general endorsement by the people.

Mr. Cochran's qualifications are not equaled by those of any other candidate. He has proved himself a worthy and competent officer, and as such can fairly come before the Republican voters for renomination. He should get it. OBSERVER.

Compromised.

Yesterday District Attorney Swoope received instructions from Commissioner Pleasonton that the following cases had been compromised:

John Holstein, brewer, Butler county, selling without stamps; compromised for $1,000 and costs.

A. A. Taggart, Pittsburgh, wholesale liquor dealer, without payment of special tax; $500 and costs.

Peter Saal, Mercer county, failing to keep the proper books; $100 and costs.

Freaks of a Freight Train.

Yesterday morning a freight train on the Connellsville Railroad run off the track at Port Perry, and the engine went crashing through a board fence and a bake oven, and "brought up" in a kitchen greatly to the amazement of an old lady who was engaged in washing the breakfast dishes. The only damage that we heard of, besides the crippling of the engine, was a demolished bake oven, a partially deranged culinary department, and a stave of "Old Hundred" considerably shattered. The mail train due in this city at 11:20 A. M.; was delayed an hour and a half in consequence of the accident.

The Ills of Wedded Life.

A Mrs. Schimf, accompanied by her daughter appeared before Mayor Callow yesterday with a long tale of domestic trouble and squabbles. The main facts in the statement of Mrs. S. are, that a year or two since she was a widow doing business in the dairy line in Allegheny, and in a pecuniary way doing well, in fact laying by a handsome fund for wet weather. Mr. Schimf observing her worldly success, with an eye to her ducats, wooed and won her. After they were married he ceased work and began to live a life of ease and laziness upon his wife's money. Finally he persuaded her to purchase a tavern stand in his name, on Thirtieth street. Then he commenced a systematic course of abuse toward mother and daughter, which he has carried on ever since. As she desired to secure her property and a separation, she was referred by his Honor to a lawyer.

The Mt. Washington Cutting.

A hearing in the case of Celia Burns, who is charged on oath of George Loup with felonious assault and battery, took place yesterday morning before Justice Barker, of South Pittsburgh. The crowd in attendance was so great that a portion of the floor in the office gave way to the pressure, occasioning quite a scramble among the spectators to escape the danger of precipitation into the cellar. Order being restored the hearing was proceeded with. Dr. J. P. McCord testified as to the nature and extent of the wounds, which appear to be very severe. Other testimony as to the affray at the Mount Washington picnic was heard, after which the magistrate announced that she would require bail in one thousand dollars for the appearance of the accused at the September term of the Court of Quarter Sessions. Mr. McDonough, of Sewickley, was again on hand, and became surety for the fair, frail, wicked creature.

Fierce Assault and Deadly Threat.

A Hebrew peddler named Nathan B. Veganzy, appeared before Alderman McMasters yesterday morning, and made an information charging Abraham Freeman, another peddler, with a threatened breach of the peace, alleging that the accused did say that he would take the life of deponent the first time he met him. It appears that a grudge has existed for some time between the parties, and on Wednesday they met at Freeport, when Freeman made a ferocious assault on Veganzy with a knife, cutting him on the arm. The assaulted party ran for his life, taking refuge in the railroad ticket office, where it became necessary for the ticket agent to interfere in order to prevent further bloodshed. It was here that the bloody threat was made, and the deponent desires that the dangerous man be put under bonds to keep the peace. Freeman was arrested and jailed for a hearing. It is the intention of Veganzy to prosecute his assailant in Armstrong county for felonious assault and battery.

That South Side Case of Small Pox.

It appears that Mr. Spencer, an account of whose death from small pox in East Birmingham, appeared in this paper, was not "found dead" as reported. On the contrary, kind friends were at his bedside, and a physician was in attendance up to the time of his death. The following note from Dr. Arnholt contains a complete refutation of the charge that Spencer was not properly cared for. The doctor says: "Mr. Spencer was not compelled to remain there, (in the room over the stable), and had left his cousin's house on the fourth day after the eruption appeared, and went to the barn, saying it was too warm in the room, and would not return, or go to any hospital. As regards the case, allow me to say that no man ever had better nursing or attention paid him than this patient, and in justice to Mr. Smith, I can only say that day and night he watched and waited by his bedside, sacrificing everything to his welfare and comfort." As regards his being "found dead," the doctor says: "Myself and Mr. William Smith were both standing at his bedside when he died."

The Case of Mrs. Bryson.

The body of Mrs. Bryson, the poor woman who died in Virgin alley Wednesday morning, was permitted to remain uncoffined until yesterday, for the reason that the proper authorities had made no provision for its interment. At last, we understand, the Coroner gave an order for the procurement of a coffin, and sent a wagon to take the remains to the place of burial. This matter should have received attention, and it doubtless would, had it not been for the fact that the Coroner did not know whether the law would allow him anything for defraying burial expenses in such cases. He seems to have labored under the impression that the case was one that properly belonged to the Guardians of the Poor. Mr. Fortune said "Nay," however, and the Coroner acted. It is hoped that the Coroner will know hereafter that he has a right to provide for the speedy interment of persons who die penniless, and upon whose remains inquests have been held. This, at least, is the prevailing opinion among those who profess to understand the law in cases like the one in question.

A Petition for the Pardon of the Ex-County Commissioners.

A strong effort is now being made to secure a pardon for the ex-Commissioners, McGee and Neely, who are now serving their term out in the Work House. The petitions are being very numerously signed. Here is the text of the document.

That at the late June sessions of the criminal court of this county, Jonathan Neely and Wm. H. McGee, late commissioners of said county, were indicted for and plead guilty to having received money from sundry applicants for license to sell liquors in said county.

That afterwards, to wit: On the 10th day of June, said Neely and McGee were sentenced to three months imprisonment and $500 fine, on each one of four counts contained in each of said indictments, and have since been and still are, confined in the Work House of said county.

Your memorialists would further represent, that in their judgment the evil complained of has been effectually cured by the arrest, indictment and imprisonment of said offenders.

That the said Neely and McGee are in delicate health, and suffering serious injury from their close confinement.

That said Neely and McGee have heretofore borne the characters of good, peaceable and law-abiding citizens, and both have families who feel acutely their incarceration in the public work-house.

That the law has been fully vindicated and the purposes of public justice attained, by the publicity, exposure and imprisonment of said offenders.

We would, therefore, pray that executive clemency may be extended by the full pardon, and restoration to their families, of the said Jonathan Neely and William H. McGee.

The Storm of Wednesday Evening.

We learn the following additional particulars of the ravages of the storm with which the city was visited on Wednesday afternoon:

Mrs. Hutchinson, wife of Mr. A. Hutchinson, one of the Superintendents of the Allegheny Parks, was struck by lightning during the storm and very severely injured. Mr. H. lives on the hill near Uniondale Cemetery. His wife was engaged in removing some clothes from the line, when she was suddenly prostrated. Mr. H. ran to her assistance and found her in an insensible condition. She was carried into the house, and after some time returned to consciousness, but one side of her body seemed to be paralyzed. Medical aid was summoned, and under treatment Mrs. H. has almost recovered.

The house of Mr. Groves, on Monterey street, near Jackson, was struck, the lightning tearing off some of the weather-boarding and passing into Mr. G.'s bed-room. The family were all in the country, with the exception of Mr. Groves, who is employed at the Union Depot, working generally at night and sleeping in the day time, but on this occasion he was out of his room, as by a fortuitous circumstance, some work at his post had to be performed at that hour.

The lightning struck an oil tank near Belvidere on the West Penn Railroad. The bolt passed down into the tank, and in an instant the oil ignited, and an explosion followed a moment afterward, and for a time it was feared other tanks would take fire. An employe of the works, who was near the tank at the time, had his face slightly burned.

Passavant Hospital was struck, but the damages to the building were very slight.

On Centre avenue, in the city, the lightning played in a most unpleasantly suggestive manner about a sewing machine, at which a lady was at work, but did no damage.

The track of the Valley road near Lawrenceville station was completely covered with water and large quantities of earth were washed down on the track and into the station-house. At Jack's Run the waters rose to such a height that lumber piled on the bank was carried off. The trains on the railroad were detained for some time by the mass of earth washed down on the tracks at various points.

THE GRAY CASE.

Reply of Dr. Nesbit.

With the following paper we hope to close the controversy, through our columns, between the counsel in this case. Both sides now, we believe, have had a fair hearing and until a "trial" it is perhaps better that the matter should rest—even though that trial should be delayed until the meeting of the Conference in March, which seems at present to be the probability.

Mr. White's article in the GAZETTE of Monday demands a brief reply. Its refutation, item by item, would not be difficult, but is not necessary.

This "brief narrative" is more distinguishable for what it omits, than for what it reports. He alluded to the "Erie case," but does not tell the readers that an examination killed that "case" outright, indeed beyond the possibility of a resurrection. A committee of five, embracing two of the complainants, was appointed by the Board of Trustees of Christ Church to examine into this "case"; and that committee, on motion of Mr. F. Sellers, unanimously adopted this resolution:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this Committee that the rumor against Brother Gray in respect to the Erie affair, is proved to be false in every particular, so far as the same reflects in any way upon the character of Brother Gray."

This unanimous action of the Committee was adopted by the Board of Trustees; and that ought to have been an end of the "Erie affair."

Mr. White also goes back to the beginning of the "Fourth avenue affair," and speaks of "the Trustees taking the testimony in reference to it," but does not tell what their action was. I shall supply the facts not given. The Trustees adopted the following action, which came to them from the Committee of five already named, and which was brought forward and acted upon in that Committee as follows:

Mr. F. Sellers offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, That after a long and tedious examination in reference to the Fourth avenue affair, the Committee believe the story relative to Mr. Gray had its origin in the misapprehension and misconduct of others.

"Dr. Coffey moved as a substitute for Mr. Seller's resolution the following:

"Resolved, That the conduct of Mr. Gray, in frequenting the room of Mr. —— under the circumstances, was imprudent and gave reason for the report; at the same time we declare, after a long and careful examination of numerous witnesses, we have failed to discover any evidence criminating him, or showing him guilty of immoral acts.

"This substitute was unanimously adopted."

I learn that the examination by this Committee was thorough and searching. They had before them all five of the material witnesses known in connection with the Fourth avenue affair; three of them examined in Committee; and two by some of the present complainants, and their testimony taken without cross-examination. Yet the finding of the Committee wholly exculpated the accused from immoral acts. And a majority of its members only admitted that he was "impudent" as a peace measure, and as a final settlement of the whole matter.

It was not thus to be settled. A bill of charges, properly signed by four complainants, was sent to the annual Conference. The Conference gave "the case" to the Presiding Elder for "investigation." The Elder appointed a time and place of trial. At that time and place the parties, with counsels and witnesses, assembled. It has been the law and usage of the Church that a Presiding Elder, in the interval between conference sessions, can investigate, by a committee, charges of immorality against a minister, but not of impropriety. The Elder so ruled in this case. Under this ruling, the prosecution refused to go on. In other words, they refused to go on under the law of the church, as interpreted and applied by the proper church officer. It was not the defendant, but myself, that invoked for him this shield and protection of law. He was present, with witnesses brought at great expense from distant places, and he was anxious for the trial. But he could not be tried, because the prosecution, for the reason named, would not go on. The law of the church, as interpreted, did not satisfy them.

In one of the earlier days of June a copy of a new bill of charges, materially changed from a previously unsigned bill, was placed in my hands by the counsel for the complainants. Its preparation, from whatever cause, had occupied a long time. Mr. Gray, after days and weeks of weary waiting, had to seek a home and some business to maintain his family. Only a short time before the new bill was received he had gone to the West on this mission, and for about three weeks was not within call of a letter. Had he been at hand, the time fixed for the trial would have suited very well. But as it was, it would have been to him a cruelty and an oppression to have had the trial in his absence or without giving him sufficient time to regather his scattered witnesses. The Elder, when the matter was so represented to him, justly postponed the investigation. The Church in his person thus showed that it does not aim to crush an accused man. He notified all the parties of this postponement. So notified, it became the duty of the complainants and their counsel to notify their witnesses of the postponement. This was their only legal course, and the only fair course to Mr. Gray. They did not do this. Why? I am sorry that the complainants and their counsel confess that they wished to have their testimony taken when Mr. Gray himself was not present. The trial might as well have gone on in his absence as to have taken testimony in his absence. The arrangement that they demanded of the Elder would have been to the defendant cruel, unjust, oppressive. Law for it there is none, nor usage, in courts civil or ecclesiastical. Is it strange that it ended, as it did, in the fiasco of last Tuesday week?

Since then I have occupied myself somewhat in trying to arrange with the complainants' counsel for a time of trial. I called on Thursday morning of last week at Mr. White's office, and submitted to him a proposition to have the investigation come off somewhere about the middle of September. He replied in the Friday GAZETTE, announcing that the time named would "suit the complainants," but also peremptorily fixing upon a period for taking their testimony, irrespective of the time and place of investigation. This is taking the law in their own hands. It is a proposition to act without judge or jury. It is the Judge Lynch process that so often confronts the civilization of the age. It spurns church courts and defensible legal processes. The testimony so taken would be worthless. I have tried all I could to prevent this new attempt at an extra-judicial process; have had several interviews with the counsel for the complainants; one of them in the presence of the Presiding Elder who expressed himself ready to appoint any day we might agree upon for the trial; I have reasoned, begged, entreated that a day of trial might be named; and, so far, all in vain. In all this I have only done for Mr. Gray what I would feel bound in conscience to do for any man, absent and accused, who should come to me and say with trembling lip, "I am innocent." I this once again lift my voice in public to ask that he be proceeded against according to the recognized forms of law.

From this public controversy I have tried to exclude all irrelevant matter. I have dealt only with the acts, not the motives, of the complainants and their counsel. Their motives, known only to God, are too sacred for criticism. But I have not allowed this thought to prevent me from showing the illegality of their proceedings against the defendant. If they will but go according to church law, it will not be six weeks till a fair, rigorous, exhaustive investigation shall be had.

I have sought to deal in facts not in memories of interviews and conversations, that always, when reported, have two sides. But I must challenge the allegations made in reference to propositions looking to an adjustment of the case. The proposition as reported in the GAZETTE I never heard of nor saw till I read it in that paper. Nor did any other friend of Mr. Gray so far as I have been able to learn.

I have also avoided any attempt at vindicating the numerous friends who refuse to abandon Mr. Gray till he is proven guilty, and who ask that he shall be fairly dealt with. I cannot indeed but think that this is noble and honorable. I have seen a list of nearly one hundred members and pew-holders in Christ Church attached to a document expressing confidence in Mr. Gray and tendering him their sympathy. These names embrace many of the best business men in these cities. Not one of these has ever asked of me an improper service for Mr. Gray, or suggested that they will not "believe him guilty no matter what the testimony is." But they do again ask, and they have a right to ask, for justice—for a fair trial—for a trial according to law and right.

It is a mistake to represent the defence as having sought this controversy, except to resist harsh and incorrect representations given to the papers. Our answer is now full until such times as the question of guilt or innocence can be tried before the proper church court.

S. H. NESBIT,
Counsel for Defence.

GRAND ARMY CONVENTION.

Meeting of the Encampment of Pennsylvania—Large Attendance.

The Erie Republican of yesterday speaking of the convention now in session there says: From midnight of Tuesday till noon yesterday each train entering the city was thronged with representatives of the noble band of soldiers associated under the name of the "Grand Army of the Republic." There were one armed and one-legged veterans, and the same number of scarred faces has not been seen here for a great while. At the Reed House, Room No. 6, the headquarters were established and between one hundred and seventy-five and two hundred credentials were offered and approved, before noon, besides the appearance of a large number of persons not formally elected delegates.

At two o'clock yesterday afternoon the Encampment was called together at Temperance Hall, which was well filled, and the business of the convention was proceeded with.

The business was mostly of a secret nature and cannot be published. Philadelphia was chosen as the place of the next session, to be held on the fourth Wednesday of 1872. Eloquent addresses were delivered by Col. Calhoon, Gen. Owen and others. General J. C. Robinson, Past Commander of the Department of New York, was received with great applause and rising honors. At the close of the session, the Department adjourned to pay a fitting tribute to the memory of Comrade Diebold of Post 67 of this city, and assist in burying him with the honors of the Grand Army.

During the afternoon and evening men strolled over the city, and experiences of different characters are related. In the evening they met at the Reed House and passed the time in various ways.

About midnight Mehl's band serenaded several officers, and speeches were made in response to several gentlemen of honor and note.

ANOTHER POISONING CASE

A Whole Family Poisoned—Strong Suspicions of an Attempted Murder.

We have been informed of the circumstances of a case of poisoning at Penn Station, on the Pennsylvania Railroad. On last Monday morning a family named Fait, consisting of a widow lady and her children, and a sister of Mrs. Fait, who has been for some time living with them, were all in their usual health. After eating dinner all four manifested symptoms of poisoning. Dr. Claggett was summoned and attended the patients, and ascertained that they had evidently taken arsenic. The two children are now pronounced out of danger, but the mother and sister are still in a very precarious condition. We learn that in the case of Mrs. Fair particularly, scarcely any hopes of recovery are entertained. As yet there has been no clue obtained to fix the guilt positively upon any person, but strong suspicions are entertained, if we are correctly informed, concerning the author of the attempted murder.

JOHN BLACKMORE met with a strange accident yesterday. He was engaged on the dredge boat Monongahela, near West Elizabeth, when he fell from a platform to the deck below, dislocating both arms. The hospital surgeon could do nothing then but attempt to delay the inflammation, in which he was partially successful. Another attempt will be made, as soon as possible, to re-set the arms.

A CASE, calculated to awaken much sympathy, occurred in the office of Alderman Irwin, in Allegheny, yesterday. A woman named Maggie Kauffman, who resides in the Third ward, appeared and stated to the Justice, that she wished to make an information. While the Alderman was writing out her statement she was suddenly seized with convulsions, and had twelve or fifteen epileptic fits in rapid succession. Dr. Thorn was summoned, and did all in his power to relieve the unfortunate woman. She was conveyed to her home as soon as she was able to be removed.

BRAKEMAN KILLED.

Both Legs Cut Off.

Yesterday, Coroner West held an inquest on the remains of Louis Snowden, who had been employed as brakeman on the Connellsville Railroad. Shortly before twelve o'clock he was on a train of five freight cars which were being shifted from the main track near the depot on Second street, to a siding. He was on the car next to the rear, and was observed giving the signal to the engineer. It is supposed that he reached down for the brake, and in doing so lost his balance and fell between the cars to the track. In falling his head struck the car, and both legs rested on the rail. The wheels of the rear car passed over him, severing both legs from the body. As soon as the deceased was missed from his position, the train, which was moving slowly, was stopped, and when the attaches ran back they found the lifeless and mangled body lying between the tracks.

The remains were removed to an undertaker's office, where the inquest was held. The jury returned a verdict of "accidental death."

Deceased had been employed on the road but a few weeks. He was a native of Johnstown, where his father and sister reside.

DIXMONT.

A Gala Day—The Varieties Company Give an Entertainment—The Affair as Reported by one of the Patients—A Document Furnished by Another.

Yesterday was a gala day at Dixmont. John Trimble's variety troupe, from the Penn Street Theatre, visited the asylum and gave an entertainment in the hall of the Institution. The company with a number of invited guests arrived at the asylum shortly after noon, and were warmly welcomed by Dr. Reed. After wandering round the grounds for some time and enjoying the beautiful scenery which is to be seen from the hill on which the Institution is located, the dinner bell rang and the guests, professional and non-professional, entered the dining hall. Here a magnificent repast was spread, and under the kindly welcome of the presiding Doctor, all felt themselves thoroughly at home, and ample justice was done to as fine a meal as was ever placed before hungry mortals.

Shortly after dinner the guests repaired to the hall, and as soon as the inmates had taken their seats the curtain rose and the performance commenced. The people whose names were on the programme were the pick of Trimble's company, and consisted of the Arabian brothers, Miss Hatty Rowell, Peasly and Fitzgerald, Millie Bertha, Billy Carter, Minnie Jay, Lizzie Warner, Charley Benedict and La Belle Ida. The perfomances were excellent, but the attention of the visitors was more occupied in watching the audience than in looking at the "show." Some 400 inmates constituted the audience, and although it was sad to look upon their countenances and think of the circumstances which led to their presence in the hall, yet it was pleasant to see every face lighted up with a smile and every eye beaming with pleasure. No audience could have been more quiet and orderly. Everything was thoroughly appreciated and though at no time was the audience noisy or boisterous in its applause, yet its appreciation was ever shown by less emphatic but more genuine signs of thorough enjoyment.

In the front row of seats sat a Lutheran minister named Welker, of whom more anon. This gentleman as soon as the curtain rose commenced taking notes of the performances, and by the kindness of Dr. Reid we are able to furnish our readers with a copy of his criticism:

Hio! for Dixmont, Thursday, P. M., 3 o'clock. Trimble's Varieties Theatre on hand in full regalia. As I here subjoin the programme I will not recur to that except as to the merits of individual performances. It is a most interesting fact that as soon as the exercises commenced almost all sad, sullen and almost savage countenances put on naturally a bright cheerful air, the music being of a thrilling kind.

Second. The Overture I have simply to say was perfect, at least I never saw nor heard it excelled. The chorus was full, two gentlemen, two 15th amendments and five descendants of Miss Nilson or Jenny Lind it is difficult to say which. Why is Dixmont like a grand organ, with apt answer. "Because it contains so many Reeds," brought down the house. "What's most like a cat? "Why a kitten of course," was so satirically, finely executed that a perfect roar of laughter was the result. Further criticism on the first part is rather beyond my genius, so I will cast into this connection the idea that had these exercises been given instead of every three weeks, every seventh day, Dr. Reed would find it less difficult to restore some of the moody and incorrigible.

This music, this singing,
This giggle and glee,
This thing of tra la! la la! la la le!
This cheers the heart and inspires the soul,
'Twould almost make a maniac whole.

Games of Olympus—of this heroic and somewhat venturesome performance, I could only give an approximate idea but cannot attempt a lengthy description of the marvelous feats and if the ancient Olympic games excelled in this sort of athletic exercise, then I am simply mistaken. The Arabian Brothers did several things of this kind which transnambulized me and I forget to write. Pretty birds, whited and blue, green and red silken lace and tiptoe shoe. She sings so sweet, the face so fair,

Diddle de dee, Diddle de dee,
Hio for Italia, Hio for Italie.

Another drink and we will pass on, going on our way to the next saloon or the St. Nickolas. I may not omit to state that the exercises were any thing than uninteresting or unedifying either, but rather imparted with life and vivacity throughout, which though sanctioned by Solomon just as much as a time to laugh was the dance by the dancers. G. W.

The writer of this critique is one of the most dangerous inmates of the Asylum. He has once escaped and has more than once shown cunning which is altogether beyond the belief of some men. His achievements in the Institution have been unique, and he is looked upon as one of the most dangerous patients.

After the performance Dr. Reed took the visitors through the wards. It was pleasant to accompany him. As he passed through the different wards every face brightened, and it was easy to see the patients loved the doctor in whose charge they were. Many curious patients were visited. One fancied himself the Saviour of mankind, and others had equally peculiar fancies. In the course of the tour one more was visited who fancied himself the owner of the city of Erie, and who was anxious to swear in all the strangers who invaded his privacy. The following correspondence was placed in the hands of a visitor by this gentleman:

Of the Institution it is difficult to say too much in the way of praise. Cleanliness seemed indigenous to the Asylum, and every floor was sufficiently clean to be eaten from. The kindness of Dr. Reed cannot be exaggerated. He laid himself out for the entertainment of his guests, and all owe him much for the courtesy shown and the hospitality extended.

BISHOP SIMPSON.

A $60,000 Bequest—Gift of a Pittsburgher.

If the memory of friends can be rendered more dear by any material bestowment, which, after death, evidences to the living the affectionate friendship of the departed, then Bishop Simpson, of the M. E. Church, will have additional incentive hereafter to keep green the memory of one recently deceased. A few weeks ago we noted the demise of an esteemed towns-man, Mr. Thomas F. Duncan, who was widely known as an exceedingly fortunate oil merchant—one of the princes of the trade. It has since been developed that the deceased left a will, in which, among other bequests, one in favor of Bishop Simpson, that when fully realized, will add probably $60,000 to that eminent divine's exchequer. The bequest consists of $30,000 cash and property, from which it is expected about $30,000 additional can be realized. The Bishop, further, in connection with Mr. Long, of Philadelphia, is named as executor of the estate.

Mr. Duncan, who thus so practically has evidenced his veneration and love for a friend, became acquainted, it is said, with the Bishop while the two were traveling in the east—an acquaintance which ripened into the warmest affection—of which the bequest is a most happy illustration. The intelligence of this piece of good fortune to one whom to know is always to revere and love, will be hailed with the most sincere pleasure by all who are acquainted personally or by reputation with the eminent and honored Divine.

In this connection it will be gratifying for friends to learn that the health of the Bishop has considerably improved within the past week, and it is expected that he will be able in a few days to resume his official duties.

THE COURTS.

Yesterday's Proceedings.

U. S. COURT—JUDGE M'KENNAN.

The case of the Union Wheeled Horse Hay Rake Company vs. W. W. Wallace, occupied the attention of this Court. The argument will be concluded to-day by Mr. Bakewell.

A petition was filed against J. D. Johnson by W. Robins, asking that Johnson be declared a bankrupt. A rule to show cause was issued.

A petition was also filed against the said defendant's mother, Mrs. E. V. Johnson, restraining her from any further proceeding on any of the judgments obtained by her in the Common Pleas Courts of Allegheny and Washington counties. The injunction was granted.

[Captain Johnson is well known in our mercantile circles as an extensive coal dealer. His liabilities, it is said, amount to about $150,000.]

THE BRADSTREET AGENCY.

The Agency Enjoined From Publishing The Report—Opinion of Judge Lindley.

The suit instituted by Mr. Meillier, wholesale druggist, says the St. Louis Democrat, against the Bradstreet Commercial Agency, to enjoin them from publishing in their report for July, 1871, a rating of his standing, which he deemed unjust and incorrect, and which occupied four days in the trial, and has aroused the interest of the whole commercial community, was decided yesterday by Judge Lindley adversely to the Bradstreet Agency. The Court House was crowded with lawyers and commercial men, and the decision of the Judge was listened to with the most eager attention. The following is the decision as delivered:

JUDGE LINDLEY'S DECISION.

In the case of Meillier against the Bradstreet Commercial Agency, not being satisfied about the law of the case as represented by the attorneys, I took occasion to examine the library for myself. That has occupied my time so much that I have not been able to reduce my decision to writing. I will therefore have to give my decision orally.

The suit is on a motion to dissolve an injunction granted by this court. Meillier in his bill alleges that the defendant, Shepard, as the agent of Bradstreet's Commercial Agency, is about to distribute and circulate books to the subscribers of said Agency, called the "Report of the 1st of July, 1871, volume 29 of Bradstreet's Commercial Reports." Mr. Meillier's business credit is stated as "W. Drugs, D. E.," by which is meant that the plaintiff is engaged in the wholesale drug business in a small way, and that credit should not be refused in all cases, but that caution is advised in selling him goods. This the plaintiff alleges is a false rating of his financial condition, and alleges that it should be "W. Drugs, B.," which, according to the key of said report, represents that the plaintiff would have charater, capacity, standing, and a high grade of capital—very good credit.

The plaintiff also alleges that the defendant is insolvent, and that Bradstreet & Sons are non-residents of the State of Missouri, and prays for an injunction restraining the circulation and distribution of the volume of reports above referred to. The injunction was granted, and on coming in of the answer, defendant moves to dissolve the same. The answer is substantially a justification of the commercial reports complained of, that the financial condition and credit of the plaintiff entitles him to be rated "D. E." only, and not "B." It also denied that there is any malice. The Court finds but little difficulty in regard to the facts, but finds some difficulty in applying the law to the facts, or, in other words, determining the law of the case.

As to the facts, taking the testimony of Mr. Speer, the plaintiff's book keeper, and of Mr. Meillier himself, as to his business since the dissolution of Scott & Meillier, as to his present financial condition and standing, and the testimony of such witnesses as Mr. Meillier, as to the standing and condition of persons rated by the defendants in their reports as "D. E," and the testimony of such witnesses as Mr. Richardson, as to the credit to which the plaintiff is entitled, the court is of the opinion that Meillier has not been properly rated; that he has been rated below what he is entitled to; and the court is confirmed in this opinion from the evident mistake made by the defendant rating him previous to this time. He is rated in July 1870, as "C. C. D. D.," which is a high rating. I will not take time to enumerate what it is. On the 15th of November of last year, he was rated "66," which meant to the subscribers of the book that there was something wrong, and told them to call at the office for information. Meillier complained of this to the defendant, and went down to examine the matter. Shepard stated to him that it was done on the rumor or report made to him by merchants that Scott, his former partner, was very anxious to get his money out of the concern, and that he (Scott) was crowding Meillier. The testimony of Scott is that he allowed his goods and credits to remain with Meillier, and under Meillier's entire control, to collect them, and pay him his portion of the money just as it was convenient for him to do so. Mr. Scott also stated that he had allowed his name and money to be given to Mr. Meillier, ad libitum, to the full amount that he was able to command.

This showed that, whatever the defendants relied upon in making their report, it was wrong in point of fact. Then, after they made that mistake, they suddenly reinstated him, and in the report of the 23d of November they say "not '66' but 'C. C. D. D.,'" which being double letters, according to the key of the report means an increase of the rate as marked by a single letter, entitling him to greater credit. Then, after that, they brought him down to "D. E.," which means "not to be refused credit in all cases, but to be credited with caution." This is the more imperious from the fact that it is dropping him from a high position to a low one, which is more imperious than putting him "D. E." in the first instance.

The plaintiff asked the court to compel the defendants to bring on the reports upon which they formed that rating. The court refused to do so, on the ground that the burden had been shifted on to the defendants, and it was for them to show why they did it. The defendants having restored the party to a higher grade, and then having dropped him, it was for them to show why they reduced him. It should not be done merely on a report. Merchants wishing to credit an individual can take rumors on the streets, but it is supposed that these defendants get facts. At least in determining whether the defendants did right or wrong, the question is to be examined as to the financial condition of the plaintiff in point of fact. And after reviewing all the evidence, I am of the opinion that the defendants have rated Mr. Meillier below his actual financial condition. His debts and credits are about equal, and he has a surplus of about $55,000 in stock and fixtures.

The motives I am not going into. The Agency is an institution, no doubt, of great benefit to parties in trade, for ascertaining the condition of people asking for credit; and it is relied on a good deal. But while it may be, perhaps, a valuable institution in that respect, it does certainly possess the power to ruin or build up the credit of an individual in the community. It has the power to do very great wrong; and the plaintiff has attempted to show that it has done so in many cases, while the defendant has attempted to overcome that. I do not propose to pass upon that, because I think it is a question as to whether they are in fact about to injure the plaintiff, no matter from what motive.

As to the law of the case, the defendant's claim, in the first place, that he cannot be enjoined, because he is the agent of Bradstreet & Son, and the principal is not made a party to the suit. This principal applies where the agent represents a principal in a matter growing out of a contract. But when a person is about to commit a tort—about to publish a libel, or to do any other wrong, he cannot claim immunity from the law on the ground that he is acting as agent only.

The next question is, can the publication of a libel be restrained by injunction? On this subject there is a division of authorities. In Townsend on Libel and Slander, it is clearly laid down that the publication of a libel cannot be enjoined, and he refers to several cases in New York, some of which have, however, been overruled. I find cases on the other side of the question, and among them the case of Dixon vs. Holden, in 7, Law Reports, Eq. p. 488, which is very similar to the case at the bar, in which the Vice-Chancellor in a very strong opinion holds that the credit and reputation of a merchant is his property, and a libel about to be published which would injure his business credit may be restrained by injunction.

There being a difference among the authorities on that point, I turn to our statue and find that the 23d section under the head injunction, must have been intended to apply to such disputed points. The language of the statue as is follows: "The remedy by the writ of injunction shall exist in all cases * * * to prevent the doing of any legal wrong, whenever in the opinion of the court an adequate remedy cannot be afforded by an action any damages."

The object of the legislation in this statute is evidently to cut through all nice distinctions and disputed points, and to restrain the commission of any wrong, no matter by what name known. And believing as I do that a wrong is about to be committed by defendant and against the plaintiff, I am next to inquire whether he has an adequate remedy by an action for damages. In regard to this, that it appears that defendant is insolvent and his principal is a non-resident of the State. He might, by going to New York, maintain an action against Bradstreet, but is a remedy which requires a citizen to go to a foreign jurisdiction an adequate remedy? Again, if the plaintiff's credit is injured it results in preventing his doing business, and would prevent the making of contemplated profits, which would bring it within the rule of speculative damages. And lastly, the damage to the credit and commercial reputation of the plaintiff by this publication is not confined to any locality, nor restricted to any time. It may follow any where in the country and for an indefinite time. How can his damages then be fairly estimated? I do not think it can be done, and, therefore, hold that plaintiff has not an adequate remedy by any action for damages. Therefore, I overrule the motion to dissolve the injunction.

At the conclusion of the decision, Mr. Knox, counsel for the defendants, immediately excepted to it, and gave notice of an appeal to the general term.

To the Select and Common Council of the City of Pittsburgh:

The undersigned citizens and property holders of the upper wards of said city, respectfully remonstrate and protest against the attempt now being made by agents of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to procure the vacation of Washington and Grant streets. To do so would effectually cut off all direct communication between the hill wards and the business part of the city; you might as well divide our city by another river.

The proposition is so unjust, unwise and monstrous that no honest man for a moment can favor the project, and we earnestly pray the members of Council to see and watch that no desperate means are effectual to procure the passage of the law.

I, the undersigned Peter McCoy, having lived on Washington street thirty-four years, and having paid the amount of three thousand dollars for paving and opening of Bedford and Washington streets, which I consider I have an interest in it, as it is part of my property on Washington street, and I have also paid one hundred and twenty-eight dollars for a sewer on Canal street last year, which I consider unjust, and the rest of the property holders paid in proportion toward the same.

I think the Pennsylvania Railroad has no right to get more privilege than what her charter calls for. The Councils have no right or jurisdiction to sign away the property of the citizens to the Pennsylvania Railroad or any other railroad.

I hope no person at the next election will vote for any man to be put on the Councils that has an interest in a Railroad, State or Coal yard, to be on the Street Committee. Three thousand good citizens are opposed to it and are able and willing to see justice done.

POLICE ITEMS.

Brief Mention of Criminalities Yesterday.

Sarah Ann Soles lodged an information before Alderman Donaldson against Henry Harrison Layton, an engineer, charging him with seduction under the promise of marriage. Miss Soles resides on Penn street near Lawrenceville. A warrant was issued.

Mayor Brush, at the early court, disposed of fourteen common cases.

Before Alderman Taylor, Mary McCollum preferred a charge of assault and battery against Hannah Marion, alleging that the accused, without cause or provocation, struck her a blow. Warrant issued.

Frank Gallagher was committed to jail by Justice Miller, of Natrona, to answer a charge of aggravated assault and battery, preferred by his wife Mary. The officer who brought the prisoner to the city states that the aggravated part consisted in catching the prosecutrix by the throat and pouring a bucket of cold water over her.

Alderman Bolster committed Chas. Thomas, convicted of aggravated assault and battery on John Hammill, to jail, in default of $1,000 bail.

Peter Teeney came before Alderman Strain and made information for surety of the peace and disorderly conduct against Catharine Durref, alleging that she threatened to blow his head off and that she used abusive and insulting language toward him.

Samuel Shaner, the proprietor of an eating house in the Diamond market, brought suit for surety of the peace before Alderman McMasters against Otto and Domer Hammer, husband and wife. The parties occupy the same house on Third avenue. They were held for a hearing.

Robert Hilton preferred a charge at the office of Alderman Bowden, in Allegheny, against Joseph Swayer for libel. The parties are proprietors of rival soda water and fruit stands in the Allegheny market, and it seems that an article was published in the Dispatch a few days since, giving a description of Hilton's stand, at which he took umbrage, and believing that Swager was the author of the article in question, he made the above information. A hearing will be had at an early date.

Before Alderman Butler Fanny Wiggins put in an appearance, complaining that Emma Johnston did commit an assault and battery upon the deponent. Emma was arrested and held for trial.

Before the same Magistrate Mollie Baily accused Emma Johnson of disorderly conduct. In this case the offender was fined three dollars and the costs.

Alderman Koenig issued a warrant for the arrest of a boy of sixteen years, name unknown, an employe in the mill of Marshall, Dickson & Co., charged on oath of Peter Nigl, with attempt to commit rape on the person of his daughter, a little girl aged about eight years. It is alleged that the accused first enticed the child into an outhouse, where he attempted to commit an outrage, and that he afterwards made a similar attempt.

Before Alderman Logan, Jacob Lapp lodged an information against a man named Wielstine for the larceny of a dog collar. It is alleged that the accused spirited away a valuable pup belonging to the deponent, and that said pup's neck was surrounded by a collar, which, under the statute in such cases made and provided, was "stolen and carried away." The parties reside on Sarah street, Birmingham. Warrant issued.

At the office of Alderman McMasters there was a large assemblage of "soiled doves" yesterday, who appeared as witnesses and principals in the case of larceny in which one Maggie Bell accuses Fannie Wiggins of stealing a linen suit valued at three dollars. The case was brought to a termination by the restoration of the property to the owner. The accused is an inmate of a notorious den of prostitution kept by a hag known as "Skid" Baily. It is represented by the police as one of the worst haunts of vice and iniquity in the city.

Catharine Fisher charged her husband Benedict Fisher, with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Justice Ammon fined him $10 and the costs of prosecution.

At the office of Justice Ammon in East Birmingham, 'Squire Lipp made an information charging Philip Bushang with disorderly conduct alleging that he assailed him on the street, calling him all manner of names. A warrant was issued.

'Squire Ammon held Jacob May for a hearing on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Mrs. Sarah Slauterbeck. The parties reside in Baldwin township.

Edward C. Padden was arrested by Mayor Brush's police for fast driving. He was fined $5 and costs.

Frederick Weaver, appeared at the office of Alderman Bolster in Allegheny, and charged his step-father, Joseph Heinrich with disorderly conduct. He alleged that Heinrich beat and abused his wife, (Weaver's mother) who is confined to her bed with sickness. Heinrich was fined $1 and costs.

Alderman Bolster issued a warrant for Mrs. Schneider charged with disorderly conduct on oath of Caroline Knorr, who alleges that the accused abused her and called her vile names.

NO RETURN FOR TURNER.

The Officers Come Home—A Reward Offered.

Yesterday Marshals Hall and Campbell returned home without any clue to the whereabouts of Turner, who so dexterously slipped away, while being brought to the city. They made a pretty thorough search of the country in the neighborhood of the place where the prisoner escaped and detailed detectives to continue the pursuit, which was about all that could be done under the circumstances. Since they came home it has been decided to offer a reward of $300 for the capture of the prisoner. This action has induced something like enthusiasm among the detectives, and it is possible that Turner will not long enjoy freedom.

RURAL NOTES.

What Mrs. Swisshelm Observed in the Country.

Our friend, Mrs. Jane G. Swisshelm, thus notes her experience in the rural districts for the benefit of the readers of the Indiana, Pa., Messenger. She says:

Having recently gone about considerably through the rural districts of Pennsylvania, I have noticed some signs of an advanced state of civilization that are worthy of mention.

PLANTING FEVERS.

In one thriving borough the citizens were widening and raising their pavements. There was plenty of clay in reach, but instead of using it, they went into the backyards, scraped up the ashes, debris and filth, carted this around to the front doors, dumped them down, smoothed them over, and laid a layer of brick. Doctors looked on and said nothing; but when the fevers, so carefully planted, spring up and ripen, they will have a harvest. Farmers looked on and said nothing, although every cart load of fever seed was worth two of good barnyard manure; and their impoverized fields lay all around crying aloud for it.

THE MODEL DRUGGIST.

In a flourishing apothecary shop I saw a customer, black-coated and caned, looking like a professional man, go around with the apothecary, consulting as to the ingredients necessary to refill an empty bottle in his hand. The apothecary, who answered to the name of doctor, suggested that extract of ginger was the article required, and took down a bottle containing about a half gallon of liquid. His customer looked at it, smelt of it and of his empty bottle, smelt it again, replaced the stopper, shook the contents well, withdrew the dripping cork and—did for it what the dogs did for the sores of Lazarus, replaced the cork, shook up the contents once more, and concluded he'd take some. The doctor regarded the proceedings with great complacency, and I thought that would be a good place to buy a tooth-brush, as the customers might try each one of the assortment and take that which suited best. Such evidences of thrift, economy, good sense and refinement are calculated to increase one's national pride and to convince one that all criticisms of foreigners are the result of envy.

THE SCHOOL MARM.

I also met a native school ma'am who has taught in the common schools of the State, one or more terms every year, for quite a number of years. In answer to my inquiries she informed me that the text books in the schools are changed "mid'lin offen," so often that she has "seldom teached" in any of the books she "larnt in." She thinks there is not much difference in "'rithmatic, fur if you know 'rithmatic in one book, you know it in another," but the change of grammars keeps one "studyin' all the time."

TIMELY HINTS.

It is very thoughtless in our School Superintendents to change grammars, for the one she "larnt" is evidently the one that ought to be "teached."

The County Superintendents of Common Schools appear to be sadly remiss in their duties. There are, in every county, a large number of young men who do not like to plow, who find hoeing hard work, who get tired pitching quoits and sitting around country groceries; who want store clothes and have no money to buy them; and of young women who are driven to desperation for want of flowers, feathers and flounces, who have neither skill nor industry to earn them by sewing or doing house work; and not more than one-fourth of either class are supplied with places as teachers in our Common Schools. There is evidently a screw loose somewhere, since these worthy young people are unemployed while quite anxious to do that for which they must be eminently fitted, as they are fit for nothing else, and the State Superintendent should see to it that they are all engaged forthwith at remunerative wages, and set to work teaching to the rising generation such pigeon English as they themselves have been "teached."

A Card to the Public.

You are respectfully invited to call at Stevenson & Cartwright tin and stove emporium, 158 Federal street, Allegheny, to see something wonderful in the art of washing. VALUABLE

Business Property

AT AUCTION,

ON THE PREMISES,

317 Liberty Street,

On SATURDAY, July 29, 1871,

AT 2 O'CLOCK P. M.

This is certainly one of the most desirable Business Properties that has been offered in a long time. Its convenience to the Union Depot and being immediately opposite the head of Smithfield street, makes it still more desirable, as it can be seen from the extreme lower end of Smithfield street making it unusually prominent for a business house. There also seems to be no doubt now but the Union Depot will be moved down to the corner of Smithfield and Liberty, and if so it will still increase its value.

Terms at sale. Inquire of
C. H. LOVE,
58 FOURTH AVENUE.
